DE VALERA AND GRIFFITH HURL "LIE" IN DAIL

Secret Irish State Papers Revealed.

By Paul Williams. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.) DUBLIN, April 27.—Accusations, re-organizations, and parliamentary chaos marked today the most heated and disorderly discussion in the history of Dail Eireann. The lie was tossed and kicked about, and the clash between the leaders of the opposing factions almost reached a point where it revealed the memoranda of negotiations between the Dail and its representatives and the British government which led to the truce and the treaty.

Both sides demanded that all correspondence relative to this conference be laid before the people, and yet it was not decided whether to publish it. Deputy Eamon de Valera went so far as to read the part of a letter from himself, as president of the Dail, to the plenipotentiaries in London dated Oct. 25, 1921.

De Valera's Letter Read. "I have received the minutes of the tenth session and your letter of the 24th," the letter said. "We all agree, and there can be no question of our asking the Irish people to enter an arrangement which will make them subjects of the crown or demanding allegiance to the British king. As the time is so pressing the Ulster question should be pushed ahead at once."

Mr. de Valera paused and then said: "I am sorry I must reveal our internal purposes to our enemies."

The speaker of the house interrupted, preventing further disclosures and temporarily, at least, smoothing over the controversy.

Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail, had previously insisted that Mr. de Valera read all this communication and that every document pertaining to the negotiations should be given to the press. He charged Mr. de Valera with continuing the misrepresentation and intimating the existence of other documents to sustain his connections with the principal signatories of the treaty.

Mr. de Valera called one of Mr. Griffith's statements a "lie."

Silent No Longer. Few have seen Mr. Griffith so emotional as when he announced that the republican element had driven him to a point where he could remain silent no longer.

"When he sent us to London he admitted that we could not bring back a republic, and he made a speech saying we could not," Mr. Griffith said. "I never did," interrupted Mr. de Valera.

"Deputy de Valera said to me at the time, 'Get rid of the strait jacket of a republic,'" went on Mr. Griffith. "I deny that!" shouted Mr. de Valera.

It makes no difference how often you deny it," returned Mr. Griffith.

Fears No Guiltless. The president and the former president of Dail Eireann shouted across at each other words that were indistinguishable because of the numerous deputies joining in. Finally Mr. Griffith's voice was heard.

"I am not going to be intimidated by any guileless here."

"Withdraw," demanded Mr. de Valera, which request brought cries of "No."

A TRAGEDY IN FOUR ACTS

(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)

Act I.—He (reading at latest apartment robbery) "My dear, you must be very careful about opening the door to strangers. Keep the door on the chain, and if they look suspicious, don't under any circumstances let them in."

Act II.—Strangers (at door with large package) "We gotta box for this flat, lady." She (terrified)—"I'm not expecting a package and I won't open the door. If you don't go away I'll call the police." (Exit strangers hastily.)

Act III.—She (to returning husband) "There were two rough looking strangers here today. They said they wanted to deliver a large box. I wouldn't let them in." He—"Fine! You did perfectly right. You can't be too careful in these days of lawlessness."

Act IV.—Later in the evening. He (as sudden thought strikes him)—"Great heavens, woman! I just remembered. Those men were delivering a case of booties, and I'm out $125!" (Curtain.)

JOHN D'S FARM MENACED DURING A $3,000,000 FIRE

Lakewood, N. J., April 27.—[Special.]—Damage estimated at more than $3,000,000 has been done by forest fires in Ocean and Monmouth counties yesterday and today.

The flames that destroyed 150,000 acres of forest and brush yesterday burst forth again today near Lower Squantum, two miles north of Lakewood. Throughout the day the fire pushed forward for ten miles on a front estimated at four to five miles.

It passed four villages and several big estates and farm houses. Villages and homes were saved by volunteer fire fighters, who came from miles around. Between 500 and 1,000 men fought the flames.

The flames reached within a half mile of the 400 acre farm of John D. Rockefeller, a few miles north of Lakewood, but were kept at this distance by the backfire method. They reached the outskirts of Arthur Brisbane's estate, but employees and neighbors started a backfire and kept the blaze away from the buildings.

300 MILES ON A GALLON OF FUEL, LATEST PROMISE

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27.—Three hundred miles by an automobile on a gallon of fuel costing five and one-half cents, is the claim H. H. Elmer, treasurer and general manager of the Globe Malleable Iron and Steel company of this city, makes for an engine designed by himself, revealed to the directors of the company at its annual meeting here today.

Three full sized models were tested before the directors today. One of the models, a one cylinder, three horse-power engine, ran continuously for eighteen hours on one and one-quarter pints of fuel, the directors stated.

The fuel used, is oil, either mineral, animal, or vegetable. No addition of carburetor is used. One of Mr. Elmer's models has attained a speed of from 2,500 to 3,000 revolutions a minute, he claims. The principle of the discovery is based on the chemistry of oil, according to Mr. Elmer.

Mr. Ford Had His New Car Swiped; Yep, He Uses 'Em

Proposes To Stop Movie Race Slurs

Elimination from moving pictures of nicknames which tend to ridicule certain races is provided in an amendment submitted as part of the city motion picture censorship ordinance now undergoing revision at the hands of an aldermanic subcommittee.

If the amendment, drawn and introduced by Ald. Robert R. Jackson, one of the colored aldermen from the Second ward, is adopted by the judiciary committee and approved by the council and the mayor, such words as "nigger," "dago," "nigger," "Turk," "coon," "mick," and "darkey" will be taboo in all picture titles, subtitles, and descriptive matter thrown on the screen.

Has Wide Scope. The amendment also prohibits the use of other "terms, titles, or phrases" which "reflect opprobrium or ridicule on a race, nation, religious sect, denomination, or constituted authority of the law." It also prohibits pictures which "hold up to scorn or ridicule any nation or the people thereof." In this it simply follows the language of the state law.

There are senators on the board now who think that the words like and shine are funny," Ald. Jackson declared. "They can see and cut out any reflection on religions, but permit reflections on races, which I think are as bad."

Won't Stop Charlie. Ald. Jackson denied assertions that the amendment would prohibit the showing of Charlie Chaplin's pictures and the petrification of the crucifixion. Ald. Oscar Olsen, chairman of the subcommittee, and Ald. Coughlin, Madron, and Briske, the other members, voted with Ald. Jackson.

UNCLE SAM NABS TRIO IN $2,500,000 N. Y. MAIL THEFT

New York, April 27.—Postoffice authorities today believed they were in a position to recover the greater part of the $2,500,000 lost taken by three armed bandits in their daring raid on a mail truck on lower Broadway last October.

Postoffice inspectors announced that their six months' work had been rewarded by the capture of three men whom they arraigned before United States Commissioner John C. Coffey on the charge that they had found them security to dispose of $75,000 worth of securities which was part of the plunder.

The arrests were made in dramatic fashion in two of the largest downtown brokerage houses, which had turned over their premises and staffs to assist the inspectors in laying a trap for the trio. More arrests are promised.

MAN IS CARRIED, SLAIN, TO HOME

John Mansfield, 44 East 44th street, a switchman, was carried to his home early this morning dead. He had been shot.

Some time before this occurred J. C. Mulvaney, 5224 Kimball avenue, a cattle worker, engaged in a battle with three auto robbers in front of his home. Mulvaney fired four shots, the robbers about ten. The merchant thinks he hit one of his assailants.

Two revolvers and a cap were picked up in the vicinity.

The police believe it possible that Mansfield may have been one of the trio who attacked Mulvaney.

HOOPESTON, ILL. YOUNG WOMAN MISSING WEEKS

No Motive or Clew for Killing Found.

The mystery of a dead girl, which resembles in several vital phases the Marion Lambert case, in which WUI Orpet was tried and acquitted, and the Durant church murders in San Francisco, came to light in Hoopston, Ill., yesterday, when the body of Gertrude Hanna, 25 years old, former Chicago resident, was found in a mutilated condition in the basement of the unoccupied parsonage of the United Presbyterian church.

The Hanna girl, who disappeared from the home of her father, Wesley T. Hanna, mill owner of Hoopston, just four weeks ago on a rainy night, was a member of the Sunday school of the Presbyterian church, which was presided over until last December by the Rev. J. P. Maloy, now pastor of the United Presbyterian church, Davis street and Wesley avenue, Evanston.

Dr. Maloy was informed last night of the finding of the body in the basement of the house which he and his family formerly occupied.

Believed Attacked, Slain. Although the cause of the girl's death has not been determined, it is the opinion of the county officials, who went to Hoopston from Danville last night that she was attacked and killed.

Her body bound with a rope, and kept on her back for a distance of two or three weeks and then removed to her former pastor's home. The autopsy by the county physician disclosed that the girl was approaching maturity. The stomach was found to be empty.

Miss Hanna was a suburban girl, according to Dr. Maloy, who said he could conceive of no motive for the crime. She was graduated from the Hoopston High school in the class with Dr. Maloy's daughter. Several years ago the girl was sent to the Kankakee institution but was discharged as cured.

Worked in Chicago. She came to Chicago three years ago and worked for several months as a student nurse at the Garfield Park hospital. Later she was employed as a clerk by Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Finally tiring of city life, she returned to the farm of her sister, Mrs. Nathaniel Harding, near Hoopston. She had been at her father's home, which is about two blocks from the parsonage, during the last year. It was said she had been a "little wild" during the last eight or nine months.

Four weeks ago last night, when her mother left the house to feed the chicken, the girl walked out and was never seen alive afterward by any friend or member of the family. It was raining, and she wore an overcoat and rubbers, but no hat.

Every means of search was instituted by the authorities, but there were no clues to her fate until yesterday. J. P. McKibben, foreman contractor, had been employed in the upper story of the parsonage repairing it for the new minister who is expected soon. He had an errand in the basement and there found the body.

No Effort at Hiding. The girl was still clothed in her overcoat and rubbers. The body was lying on a cement ledge about two feet wide and three feet from the ground, which ran around the cellar. No particular effort had been made to cover or hide it.

The town authorities notified Sheriff Charles Knox and he and State's Attorney John A. Leman of Danville were on the scene within an hour and a half after the discovery of the body at 4:30 o'clock. Coroner John Cole and County Physician Fisher arrived later. They performed an autopsy and found the lungs in good condition. The arms looked as though they had been bound tightly with a rope. The wrists were marked as though they had been crushed tightly. It was the opinion that murder had been committed and that the girl had been dead four weeks, but the exact cause of death will not be determined until analysis of the organs. The inquest was postponed to await further investigation.

Door Locked Inside. The door to the cellar stairway where the body was found was closed and locked from the inside by a broom handle thrust through the staples. According to Coroner Cole, it looked as though she had been murdered and that the murderer returned later and removed the ropes or wires with which she was bound.

"Our daughter left home to do my shopping the evening of March 2," said the girl's father last night. "When she failed to return home I searched for her that night and did not find her."

all I could learn her whereabouts. I have no theory as to the cause of her death. She had made no threats of suicide."

Maloy said last night: "As her former pastor, who came to Evanston last December, I was recently requested by letter from Hoopes to help search in Chicago for Miss Hanna."

"It was thought that because she had been employed by Sears, Roebuck & Co., she might have returned to Chicago."

"I am surprised, of course, to learn that she was found slain, for I can conceive of no motive any one might have to do away with this unfortunate young woman. She had no enemies as far as we down there knew. She always had acted quite quietly, not mixing with the crowd as young folks do in the church. Folks at Hoopesston regarded her with pity."

Youngest of Daughters.
"She was graduated from the Hoopesston High school. I believe with the class of 1915. As pastor of their church, I became acquainted with all members of the Hanna family. T. Hanna, the father, is a fairly well-to-do mill owner. Gertrude was the youngest daughter. She was about 25 years old. Her sister, Grace, is 26 years old. The eldest sister is Mrs. Harting."

"It was at this farm that Gertrude lived after returning from Chicago. She had violent fits of crying while here, her sister saying that often she would make a great commotion with her moaning and melancholia."

The Rev. Mr. Maloy came to his Evanston parish last December, replacing the Rev. George Whitehead, who was transferred to an eastern charge after eighteen years in Evanston.

Harry Maloy, 13 year old son of the pastor, said that the young woman was regarded as "fanny" by boys and girls of Hoopesston.

"She did not mix with them at parties," he said. "Folks say she was queer."

SENSES OF BLIND GIRL TOO REFINED TO BE MEASURED

Willette Huggins, the 17 year old girl, marvel who, though blind and deaf, can read newspaper headlines and distinguish colors, again amazed Chicago physicians when she demonstrated her powers before the north side branch of the Chicago Medical society last night at the North Shore hotel.

"Miss Huggins has a bright future," said J. T. Hooper, head of the Wisconsin State School for the Blind. "Not on the vaudeville stage, but in teaching other blind people to make use of their sense of touch and smell."

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university said Miss Huggins' sense of touch and smell had proved too highly refined to be measured by the ordinary instruments in use in the Northwestern psychological laboratories.

Under the direction of Dr. T. J. Williams, Miss Huggins held colored objects to her nose and unfailingly announced their hues. She was tried on flowers, painted objects, and articles colored with calamine.

LAKE COUNTY'S BOARD ASKS PAY FOR SMALL TRIAL

Fear Demand May Hamper Jury Selection.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Waukegan, Ill., April 27.—(Special.)—Look out; if you serve on this jury you may never be paid for your services. Lake county hasn't the money to pay you.

This in effect was the message to the prospective jurors for Gov. Small's trial contained in a formal resolution passed by the county board of supervisors today. This is the same body which recently sent a committee to Judge Claire C. Edwards and privately asked him to give the governor one more continuance in order that Lake county might "get its state roads."

The action of the county board was construed also to mean that, even if Sangamon county were able and willing to pay the jurors, the taxpayers might go into court and prevent the payment because the manner in which they were drawn for the jury was not the regular way.

Fear More Trouble in Getting Jury.
Both pieces of propaganda appeared in the Waukegan afternoon papers today. Only four of the twelve jurors have been obtained, and it is expected an increased reluctance to go on the panel will be shown here.

That reluctance was great before this maneuver. For example, about forty-five men out of sixty-two who answered a new venire call today asked to be excused, and the examinations thus far show that two-thirds of those who reach the jury box say they have "fixed opinions" which will not permit them to be fair and impartial, and it is estimated that a large percentage of this number make that statement solely to avoid service.

With these new rumors thrown into the situation—the threat that even that a day will not be forthcoming—it is feared that excuses and "fixed opinions" will multiply overnight.

When Judge Edwards was shown a copy of the board of supervisors' resolution and was told of the "taxpayers' rumor he characterized it as "all smoke," but declined to "rush into print" on a matter not before his court. "But you may say for me," he added, "that I'll see that the jurors are paid. And I shall tell that to the veniremen if it becomes necessary."

The action of the supervisors is ascribed almost entirely to the dominating influence on the board of William J. "Bill" Stratton, a neighbor of Fred Lundin at Fox Lake and Gov. Small's appointee as chief game warden.

The resolution sets up the fact that while the costs of the Small trial eventually will be paid by Sangamon county, where it would have been tried except

SUICIDE'S WIDOW

MRS. VIRGINIA MICHELS.

Mrs. Virginia Michels, a prisoner in the county jail since last Wednesday, was yesterday informed that her husband, Theodore, 46, 1522 North Halsted street, had killed himself. Dependent because he was unable to obtain a bond for his wife, Mr. Michels shut himself in the room and turned on the gas. He was found dead by Mrs. Alvina Pruno, 2024 North Halsted street, his mother-in-law.

The two were codefendants on a fur robbery charge. The charge against Mrs. Michels was noisily pressed by Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hamilton in order that she might attend her husband's funeral.

smoke," but declined to "rush into print" on a matter not before his court. "But you may say for me," he added, "that I'll see that the jurors are paid. And I shall tell that to the veniremen if it becomes necessary."

The action of the supervisors is ascribed almost entirely to the dominating influence on the board of William J. "Bill" Stratton, a neighbor of Fred Lundin at Fox Lake and Gov. Small's appointee as chief game warden.

The resolution sets up the fact that while the costs of the Small trial eventually will be paid by Sangamon county, where it would have been tried except that the defense took a change of venue, Lake county finds it impossible "at this time" to advance the money for "jurors' warrants, sheriff's fees, and other fees." Upon this basis it "demands" of Sangamon county a sum sufficient to meet the expenses already incurred.

Apparently the matter of the expenses already incurred was something of a joke, for Circuit Clerk Brockway said he had not yet even tabulated them. He said they probably would not total over $3,000. As this is tax-paying time, there is extreme doubt that Lake county would be embarrassed by advancing an even much larger amount than this.

No Doubt of Payment.

Legally it is said there is not a scintilla of doubt concerning either Lake county's obligation to pay at this time or Sangamon's obligation to pay when the final bill is presented.

And concerning the other propaganda bomb that was planted so carefully for the last two days—statements by some of the lawyers identified with Gov. Small's defense that a taxpayer might step into court either in Sangamon county or Lake county and restrain the payment of jurors' fees because the jury list was not drawn in the usual manner—lawyers not on that side are unanimous. They say that such a suit would be thrown out of court.

In connection with this section of the message to the veniremen, another important point is made. The statement that the jury list was drawn irregularly and not in conformity with the law is considered a direct reflection upon Judge Edwards, who proposed the plan that was followed—that of taking every fourth name on the latest poll lists of the county.

So indignant were the attorneys for the state that, while they refused to discuss the subject until they had determined upon their plan of procedure, it was reported they had discussed beginning action on the theory that the propaganda campaign was nothing less than wholesale jury tampering. It was said they considered it a conspiracy to obstruct justice as well as contempt of court.

More Jurors Sworn.

No more jurors were added today to the four already sworn in, but at adjournment there were indications that some of the panel of four then under examination would survive the final tests in the morning.

The defense had accepted the state's tender of Earl Washburn, owner of a store at Gurnee, and had tendered Charles Forver, a Waukegan grocery clerk, and P. W. Radke, an accountant employed by a Waukegan lumber company. Charles Melville, a motor-man on the North Shore line, living at Highland Park, was the fourth. During the day's quizzing the state used the second of its peremptory challenges and the defense used two, leaving them each eight more.

12,000 MEETINGS IN OPEN AIR, PLAN OF CITY CHURCHES

Holding of 12,000 open air meetings by churches and various organizations, beginning next week, was planned last evening at a dinner of the Chicago Church federation at the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association, 19 South La Salle street.

Representatives of fourteen organizations spoke and agreed to help carry out the program. Weekly reports are to be sent to the federation headquarters. The new feature of the campaign will be the holding of open air meetings in residence neighborhoods and by churches which were characterized in the addresses as "aristocratic and dignified." The Buena Memorial Presbyterian church, Broadway and Sheridan road, is one of these churches. The Rev. Henry Heppner, the pastor, was one of the speakers.

FRANCE REFUSES GENOA TALK ON GERMAN DEBTS

Russia Anticipates Rough
Note from Powers.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, April 27.—Premier Poincaré today refused to attend or approve of an immediate meeting of the supreme council at Genoa, which is the latest Lloyd George project. The French cabinet unanimously decided against the project during the morning and afternoon sessions, but Premier Poincaré hints that he might come to Genoa to head the French delegation at the conference on May 7 and 8, when President Millerand returns.

The French reply explains that there is no reason for the allies to discuss action against Germany until Germany has defaulted May 31 and that the case is now entirely in the hands of the reparations commission. As to discussing the Rapallo treaty, the French say that the reparations commission is now studying any infringement by the Russo-German treaty on the allied rights. The French say they learned that the commission, except the French delegates, has decided that there is no infringement.

RUSSIA ISSUES NOTE

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.)
GEORGE, April 27.—The Russian delegation forestalled the allies' ultimatum, which the experts are drawing up, by issuing a statement this afternoon saying that "while not desiring a rupture Russia intends to safeguard its rights, and reciprocity is the sole basis for community of the peoples and reconstruction which were the fundamental ideas of the Cannes resolution."

The French delegation denied this afternoon that Premier Poincaré had accepted the suggestion to come to Genoa on May 5 to attend an enlarged meeting of the supreme council, including the signatories of the Versailles treaty, to consider what to do, if Germany does not execute the reparations demands by May 31.

Not at Genoa.
Premier Poincaré remains absolutely opposed to injecting the reparations question into the Genoa conference. If he meets the allied leaders to discuss the problem it will be elsewhere than here, said the French spokesman.

Prime Minister Lloyd George this morning conferred with M. Motia, obtaining Switzerland's support for his nonaggression pact. Afterwards he conferred with M. Jaspard of Belgium and Sig. Schaner of Italy again.

The finance subcommittee today was busy working out plans to exempt persons living in foreign countries from double taxation through paying income taxes at home and abroad.

To Put Off Russia Note.
To instill a sign of life in the corpse of the conference preparations are under way for a preliminary session on Monday when reports will be submitted by the finance, transport and economic committees, as the last named expects to conclude its work tomorrow.

Unexpected delays have prevented the allied experts from finishing the draft of their communication to the Russians. Rather than risk a rupture by a refusal of the soviet delegates to accept the allied conditions, the powers suggest a ninety days postponement of the whole Russian question to another conference to be called in midsummer.

Dr. Walther Rathenau, German delegate, today praised Mr. Lloyd George's speech of last night and promised that Germany will find no objection to a nonaggression pact if it is based on justice, right and equity.

Barthou to Paris.
PARIS, April 27.—(United Press.)—Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation at Genoa, is to leave the conference on Saturday and come to Paris to confer with Premier Poincaré. It was semi-officially stated today. At the same time the foreign office categorically denied that French troops are preparing to advance into the Ruhr valley.

COAST OFFICIALS JOIN IN BATTLE AGAINST KLANNS

Oil Field Outbreaks to Be Searched.

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.
Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—[Special.]—Two California district attorneys have joined forces today and prepared to battle the Ku Klux Klan.

District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine of Los Angeles is arranging to have a grand jury impaneled as soon as possible and to lay before it all the evidence by which he has linked the "Invisible Empire" with the raid in Inglewood last Sunday morning.

He has learned there are 1,013 Klansmen, at least, in the city of Los Angeles, comprising men in all walks of life, including ministers and members of his own staff, it is said.

Knows Oil Field Klansmen.
Now, he believes, he can show these night riders were Klansmen. He has obtained the names of members of the plan in Bakersfield and Taft and other oil towns.

It is stated that among other papers taken in the raid on the K. K. K. offices were reports made to Grand Gobin W. S. Coburn by the Klans in Kern county.

Woolwine, his chief deputy, W. C. Doran, and Dorsey spent much time together checking up on the seized papers. A corps of photographers was put at Dorsey's service and he obtained all the evidence he needed, he said, and left at once. He wanted to get back to Bakersfield while the grand jury was still in session.

MIDWIFE ARRESTED.
Following the death Wednesday of Ellen Smith, 20, 120 West 72d street, said to have been caused by an illegal operation, police arrested Mrs. Anna Schenk, midwife, 3213 South Monroe street.

U. S. BOGUS BOND STORY IS AGAIN DECLARED FALSE

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—The oft-repeated charge that the country is flooded with duplicate Liberty bonds and re-issued yesterday in the house by Representative Roy S. Johnson (S. D.), Republican, who declared the duplicates would aggregate $400,000,000 was again emphatically denied today at the treasury department.

MISS MARY LETS ALLISTER DO THE WEDDING DATING

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, April 27.—Mary Landon Baker and Allister McCormick were interviewed in Paris today by telephone by a Tribune correspondent. They were both found during the afternoon at the home of Countess Janze, a niece of J. Ogden Armour of Chicago, at 23 Rue Jean Goujon. Mr. McCormick is stopping at the Hotel Vauclmont. The couple were seen dining and lunching together two days ago at the Ritz hotel.

"Are you arranging your trousseau in Paris?" Miss Baker was asked.

"I do not say that, but I am doing some shopping," she replied.

"Has any date been set for the wedding?"

"Hold the telephone one minute and Mr. McCormick will answer."

Two Posing as
Wed Face Trial
in 'Badger Game'
Mrs. Helen Rosequist, 1409 West Van Buren street, and Harold Maxwell, who posed as her husband, will appear for trial before Judge Harry B. Miller today on "badger game" charges preferred by David Levy, proprietor of the Webster pharmacy, 2200 North Halsted street.

The couple were indicted last December with "Red" McLaren, who has not been found. Levy went to the woman's flat to deliver an order of face powder. She appeared in negligee, enticed him into the house, he said, and then he was seized by the supposed husband and McLaren and threatened until he wrote a check for $2,000. He got away, stopped payment and caused their arrest.

CROWE EXPECTED TO PROBE SCHOOL BOARD CHARGES

Indication that State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe may take a hand in the investigation of graft charges directed against the board of education, and a possibility that suspension of William A. Bither, attorney for the board, will be urged at a public hearing of the scandal, set for next Wednesday, developed last night.

Attorney Bither, Edwin S. Davis, president of the board, and Albert H. Severinghaus, vice president, yesterday reiterated their denials that the board had refused to buy property on the Wendell Phillips block from the G. A. Springer estate for $55,000, but had, within a week after the lots changed hands, paid $30,000 more for them.

Denies Charges.
There is nothing in the records to prove the board of education ever offered this property for less than it paid," said Mr. Bither.

Charles E. Springer, real estate agent whose letter containing the charges was a sensation of Wednesday's meeting of the board, admitted this might be true.

"But," he added, "I am prepared to prove I made the offer verbally, once to President Davis and John H. Guilford, assistant business manager of the board, and again at an open meeting of the board. Affidavits supporting this assertion are now being drawn up."

Trustee Hart Hanson, chairman of the school administration committee, to which the board referred the charges for investigation, probably will be in conference at the state's attorney's office today, it was said.

Office Is Ready.
This office is prepared to cooperate in any investigation that seems to be within its province," said Edgar A. Jonas, first assistant state's attorney, last night. "We are not yet in full possession of the facts, but if it is shown they warrant action by the state's attorney—there will be action."

In announcing the date of the public hearing, which will be in the board of education rooms on South Clark street, Mr. Hanson his first effort, if the case stands up, will be to bring about the suspension of Attorney Bither.

"The evidence upon which the charges are based is that Mr. Bither directed all negotiations for the board in connection with the purchase of the north end lots of the Wendell Phillips school block," said Mr. Hanson. "He is therefore necessarily in the direct line of fire."

Where Did Money Go?
The aim of Wednesday's hearing, Trustee Hanson asserted, will be not only to show whether Chicago taxpayers were defrauded of $30,000 in this school property transaction but to find out who got the "rakeoff."

The question as to whether the board has been mulcted out of about $15,000 in rentals from houses on the property in less than two years also will be brought to the fore. According to Mr. Springer, Charles A. White, president of the Lincoln State bank, who brought the property from the Springer estate and transferred it to the city, soon after the deal was closed directed him to turn over rental returns to H. W. Kaup, a contractor, living at 2110 Armitage avenue, a few doors from Vice President Severinghaus.

STILL ALLEGES AFFECTIONS.
"He still alleges my wife's affections," charged Bither, 129 West 61st street, against John Hildebrand, 6243 South May street, yesterday in the Englewood court. The case was transferred to the court of domestic relations.

CIVIL SERVICE CRITIC INVADERS MEETING OF FOES

Bartlett Says System Is Defeating People's Will.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—Administration leaders invaded a meeting of the National Civil Service Reform league here today and demanded opportunity to denounce charges of an organized effort on the part of officials in Washington to wreck the civil service establishment. Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett, former chairman of the civil service commission, and Assistant Secretary of Labor E. J. Henning "went to the mat" with critics of the administration who had called the meeting as a protest against an alleged administration attempt to hold the flag of the spoils system at the government masthead.

They denounced as absolutely false statements contained in the call for the meeting issued by William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, acting chairman of the civil service reform league. Neither government official had been invited to attend, but both came challenging the right of anyone to question their loyalty to the civil service.

Debate Becomes Lively.

Mr. Bartlett declared that no loyal friend of the civil service would claim it could not be improved. Mr. Henning read a letter from Secretary of Labor Davis asserting that he had been deliberately misquoted by Foulke and that the civil service had no better

FORMER CITY EMPLOYEE WHO IMAGINED THINGS IS ADJUDGED INSANE

Sidney Meyers, 1709 North Wells street, former stenographer for the city council, was found insane yesterday by Dr. William J. Hickson of the psychopathic laboratory. Meyers was arrested Wednesday following his complaint that three aldermen were in a conspiracy to "kill" him. He was sent to the Psychopathic hospital. He has been known to the federal authorities for the last five years because of letters to prominent government officials, in which he cited his imagined wrongs.

friend than Mr. Davis. Both speakers urged that the civil service should not attempt to tie the hands of the President by encroaching upon purely administrative offices.

Bartlett and Foulke engaged in lively debate, Bartlett at the climax of the discussion shaking his fist at his Hoosier accuser and shouting:

"It is damnably unfair to the half million boys and girls working for a livelihood here to cause them to be unhappy and apprehensive by the circulation of intimations that the government is going to throw them out."

Melson S. Spencer, former chairman of the New York civil service commission, who presided at the meeting, was denounced by Mr. Bartlett when he inroduced the assistant postmaster general as being on the side opposed to civil service.

Phases Attitude of Harding.

"I challenge any man," said Mr. Bartlett, "insisting that as a friend of civil service he had a right to participate in the meeting, who claims to be more interested in the welfare of the civil service than I am, or more interested that civil service shall better serve the country."

Mr. Bartlett added that he might also include the Harding administration in a demand for a showdown, because that administration had done everything it could to help uphold the civil service and "has inaugurated reforms of far reaching importance with reference to civil service which have never been attempted in any prior administration and has in no instance violated any civil service law."

Mr. Bartlett intimated that the meeting was actuated by political considerations.

"It seems a little suggestive of politics that a political 'independent' from Indiana should, on the eve of a great primary in this state, attack the splendid senator who is seeking a re-nomination," said Bartlett, referring to Foulke's recent attack upon himself and Senator New for statements made relating to civil service shortcomings.

"However zealous we may be of civil service, the welfare of our country is of greatest importance. Those who cannot see any evils connected with civil service are as blind as those who see no good in it."

"Even if we are under civil service ourselves, the braver and nobler thing is to ask what is best for our country, for in the long run what is best for the country will be best for us all."

"Whenever an administration comes into power, whatever its politics, it is the verdict of the people that the things for which it has stood shall be carried into effect as far as possible and as promptly as possible. The faithful fulfillment of these mandates of the people must be held up as the foremost objective of any administration. The machinery of government, the instrumentalities and even the personnel by means of which the mandates of the people must be carried out must always be subordinated to the great tasks to be performed."

Two Diverging Views.

"Right at this point of reasoning is the beginning of the diverging lines between the two schools of thought with reference to civil service. One school seems to go on the principle that civil service, when it reaches its highest goal, may include every one below the president. I say this advisedly, because I have heard grandiloquent civil service speakers proclaim the day when cabinet officers shall be under civil service. If cabinet officers, the same logic would also include the President."

"One has only to ponder upon this for a moment to see himself thinking that it is absolutely necessary somewhere to draw the line, for if all the officers of the government, from the President down through to the messenger boys, should come under legal civil service, all of them holding office for life, we would then have something worse than a monarchy, worse than a kingdom—it would be a monarchy and bureaucracy combined. It would be a machine government instead of a people's government."

"I know this is an extreme view and I am setting it up for your thought simply to emphasize the fact that there must be drawn a line where civil service shall end and that that line must be drawn on some principle. I have never heard the ardent extremists on civil service suggest that a line be drawn anywhere."

TARIFF BILL MAY BE POSTPONED TO NEXT SESSION

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—Democratic bombardment of the McCumber tariff bill will be continued in the senate tomorrow by Senator King (Utah), who will discuss in detail the changes in duties proposed on chemicals and dyes.

Many predictions are heard that ultimately the Republican leaders will throw up their hands and admit inability to pass the bill at the present session of congress.

The Democrats are well satisfied. They are carefully mapping out a program of opposition with a view to getting across to the public gradually what they regard as the iniquities of the McCumber bill.

Breakfast at Henrici's

Whether or not one takes any breakfast at all is not, necessarily, a matter of special importance. Many people in sedentary occupations thrive upon two meals a day.

But when one DOES take breakfast, whether light or heavy, it becomes, in an economic sense, the most important meal of the business day.

For instance, a poor luncheon may adversely affect the work of only half a day, whereas a breakfast of indifferent (or worse) quality often results in inefficiency for a whole day.

Why not Henrici's for breakfast

HARDING LAUDS GRANT CHIEFLY AS MAN OF PEACE

Generosity to Foes at End of War Emphasized.

BULLETIN.

Cincinnati, O., April 27.—President Harding started on his return trip to Washington at 9:39 tonight.

Point Pleasant, O., April 27.—[Special.]—In the shadow of the spot where Gen. Grant was born 100 years ago today, President Harding brought forth great applause from 15,000 people when he expressed his belief that the great union leader would have approved "all the republic has so recently done in joining other nations in lifting the burdens of armament and promoting understandings which make war less likely."

The audience, composed mainly of Ohioans, cheered also when Mr. Harding declared the sacrifice and nation-wide service in the world war revealed the common American soul. Mr. Harding spoke from a stand immediately adjoining the spot on which stood the cottage where Gen. Grant was born. Mrs. Harding, chairman of the committee, and many other distinguished people were on the platform. A group of grand army veterans followed closely every word of the President.

Like "the Country." In the absence of Gov. Davis, who is ill, Judge Hugh Nichols, chairman of the centennial committee, introduced the President.

Before beginning his prepared address Mr. Harding expressed his pleasure at coming to a village like Point Pleasant for an occasion like that of today. "Not that I do not respect the genius and the determination and the capacity which belongs to great cities," he said, "but if my observations in life count for anything I want to say to you that the one everlasting anchorage of this republic is in the communities like this. In the simple life of the hamlet and the village there is the typical study life of our America and I rejoice to come among you."

"Unselfish" and "Magnanimous." Cheers and handclapping came from his hearers when Mr. Harding said of Gen. Grant that "he only wanted to sustain Lincoln, whom God inspired to bestow freedom." And again when he declared, "He fought for a preserved union and restored nation and succeeding generations are richer because of his example." He praised the union leader as a great hero and military commander, the "unconditional surrender Grant" of the army, who immediately on the surrender of Gen. Lee at Appomattox became "Grant the magnanimous."

"Though he proclaimed the doctrine of moral disarmament at Appomattox, he believed in a nation equipped for a righteous cause," Mr. Harding declared. "But no aggression was in his breast." Declaring at the outset that he had pondered over the attributes of the character of Grant, the President said the union leader "looms majestic in the blend of them all—his fame is secure."

Miracle Born of War. "One must reverse his military genius, even though its development was one of those miracles of grim war itself," he continued. "No one would have picked him in youth or early manhood or in his early career as an officer

Must Have an Anna

ANNA CASE.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—Anna Case, opera star, was informed in letters alleged to have been written by Walker Bartels, 30 years old, a coffin manufacturer, that on May 1 she would be expected to marry him. Miss Case, who has heard of the man, complained to the police. Bartels is now in Bellevue. The emphatic declaration reads: "I'm going to marry you May 1, and if you turn this down, then I'll marry Anna Fiedel instead."

for the great commander. Responsibility and necessity set ablaze the latent genius.

"Donelson was a flash of daring, Vicksburg his trophy of courage and unalterable determination, Petersburg the revelation of his genius. But at Appomattox he was Grant the magnanimous, who spoke for reunion as he had fought for union, and turned from grim warrior to the ambassador of peace. He could neither hate nor humiliate, and in the very glow of surpassing triumph he could not be ungracious or inconsiderate."

In the supreme moment of victory, with union saved at unutterable cost, he seems to have surveyed the many disappointments, the measureless sacrifices, and indescribable sorrows. He felt the assurance of the nation preserved, and yet the one sweeping utterance from his great heart was: 'Let us have peace.'

Showered Greatness After Victory.

The President said the task of reconstruction was lighter because of Grant's moderation, calling attention to the manner in which he received the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, whom God inspired to bestow freedom. And again when he declared, "He fought for a preserved union and restored nation and succeeding generations are richer because of his example." He praised the union leader as a great hero and military commander, the "unconditional surrender Grant" of the army, who immediately on the surrender of Gen. Lee at Appomattox became "Grant the magnanimous."

"Though he proclaimed the doctrine of moral disarmament at Appomattox, he believed in a nation equipped for a righteous cause," Mr. Harding declared. "But no aggression was in his breast." NATION'S CAPITAL HONORS GRANT AS WORK STOPS

Massive Memorial Is Dedicated.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—Machinery of the government was halted by executive order of President Harding today while official Washington paid homage to the memory of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, union army chieftain and twice President of the republic, on this, the centenary of his birth.

VICE PRESIDENT COOLIDGE.

The crowning event of the day's ceremonies here (Copyright: Harris & Ewing.) was the formal dedication of the massive Grant memorial in the Botanic garden, in the shadow of the capitol, a heroic monument which was fifteen years in completing at an expense of a quarter of a million dollars.

Preceding the dedication, which was presided over by Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States, there was a military parade, cheered by thousands along the line of march from the White House to the capitol.

Weeks Makes Presentation.

At the dedication members of the senate and house, the Supreme court, staff, Secretary of the Navy Danby, Gen. Julian S. Carr, commander-in-chief of the United States Army, and Gen. Lewis S. Picher, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Vice President Speaks.

Taps were sounded at the conclusion of the exercises by a guard of honor composed of cadets from the United States military academy and midshipmen from the United States naval academy. The benediction was by the Rev. Washington Gardner, past commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In his speech accepting the memorial, Vice President Coolidge laid particular emphasis on the greatness of Gen. Grant in peace as well as in war.

"It is in response to an increasing sentiment of gratitude and patriotism," the vice president said, "that national action has set apart this day to observe the centennial anniversary of the birth of a great American, who was sent into the world endowed with a greatness easy to understand, yet difficult to describe, the highest type of intellectual power—simplicity and directness, the highest type of character—fidelity and honesty. He will forever hold the admiration of a people in whom these qualities abide."

GRANT'S MEMORY PAID HOMAGE OF ALL CHICAGOANS

100th Anniversary of His Birth Celebrated.

Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, the silent soldier from Galena, was eulogized as not only the greatest general of modern times, but as one of the first great exponents of worldwide peace by "Private" Joseph Fifer, former governor of Illinois, at the Union League club Grant dinner last night.

"Simple, retiring, courageous, masterful, inspiring, modest," were some of the adjectives he used in describing the general's career as soldier, farmer, general, and statesman.

Failure in Business.

"Gen. Grant was following the trade of a tanner in Galena, a failure in his thirties, when the war came," said Mr. Fifer. He was graduated from West Point, but had resigned. There was no reason why he should again take up arms. There was no one to urge him to enlist, yet we see this man volunteering. From the time his services were accepted by Gov. Yates he rose step by step and rank by rank until as supreme commander of the greatest armies ever assembled under one flag he crushed the confederacy and achieved what the strategists of Europe had pronounced impossible.

"Yet through it all he was a lover of peace. No better proof of this can be found than his famous reply to a question by the crown prince of Germany when he said, 'I do not love war. I never enter a war or a battle without regret nor leave a battlefield without pleasure.'"

Mr. Fifer's speech was the highlight of a day when all Chicago united in observing the 100th anniversary of the birth of Gen. Grant. Speeches, parades, and memorial exercises in the schools featured the program.

Jones Outlines Grant's Career.

The career of the soldier-president, from his infancy in the little Ohio town to his last days, when he wrote his memoirs so that his wife need not be in want, was outlined last night at the Chicago Historical society by his son-in-law, Frank Hatch Jones.

"I met Gen. Grant but once, forty years ago," said Mr. Jones, who married Nellie Grant, daughter of the famous general. The address, he explained, was made from information supplied by Mrs. Grant and from the general's memoirs.

"Military life had no charm for him," Mr. Jones went on, "and he did not wish to attend West Point when he won the appointment in 1839. 'Up to that time his name had been Hiram Ulysses Grant. From then on he called himself Ulysses S. Grant, as he did not like the initials H. U. G.' His qualities of courage, justice, purity, modesty, make his example the best I know for the youth of the nation to cultivate," Mr. Jones concluded.

SHOEMAKER DROPS DEAD ON THOLEY. Frank Tucey, a shoemaker, 543 North LaSalle avenue, dropped dead last night while on a south bound Ashland avenue car at West Roosevelt road. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause.

CAPTURED FLAG OF LOST CAUSE GIVEN BACK TO TENNESSEE

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—One of the notable incidents of the Grant centennial celebration in Washington today was the return of the battle flag captured from the 11th Tennessee confederate regiment by the 10th Illinois volunteer regiment at the battle of Franklin, Tenn.

The flag, bearing a long list of the engagements in which the 11th Tennessee participated, has been in the possession of Mrs. Mary F. Hamilton of Quincy, Ill., widow of Col. Hamilton, commander of the 10th Illinois regiment, for a number of years. As nearly as the history of the old banner can be established, it is believed that it was captured by Col. Hamilton in person in combat with Col. George W. Gordon, who headed a charge of the Tennessee regiment upon the federal position.

Senator McKinley (Ill.) and Senator McKellar (Tenn.) took part in the restoration ceremonies, which were held at Senator McKinley's office. Gaylord Davidson, formerly of Illinois, now of Roanoke, Va., representing Mrs. Hamilton, presented the flag to Wade H. Cooper, who was appointed by Gov. Taylor of Tennessee, to represent the 11th Tennessee regiment.

DIES FROM SCALDING. Bernice Bobb, 5, 3317 Polk avenue, died at her home yesterday from burns which she suffered Wednesday when she fell backwards into a tub of hot water on the kitchen floor.

BOAT ON WAY TO BIRTHPLACE OF GRANT DAMAGED

Point Pleasant, O., April 27.—[By the Associated Press.]—President Harding's adventuresome thirty mile voyage up the Ohio river today to participate in the one-hundredth birthday anniversary of Gen. U. S. Grant, narrowly escaped serious disaster when part of the third deck of the steamer Island Queen crashed to the deck below, carrying with it some 200 persons.

Only half a minute's warning by cracking timbers gave a school children's band and many others on the deck below time to get from under the crashing deck. Twenty-five persons were injured, Cincinnati police say.

That the President and Mrs. Harding and other distinguished personages in the presidential party were not aboard the Island Queen was due to advice of government inspectors late last night. They advised against the President making the trip on the old pleasure boat because of its condition. Consequently the President and his party were assigned to the Cayuga, a government boat, which led the flotilla of seven steamers from Cincinnati bearing between 10,000 and 15,000 people. The river flotilla was passing New Richmond, O., seven miles below Point Pleasant at the time of the accident.

WOMEN RUSH TO DEFEND SEX AS AUTO DRIVERS

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Watch your speed! Women drivers, banded together through club affiliations in the city-wide campaign to check speeding and reckless driving, took issue yesterday with Police Magistrate John E. Boyer of Evanston, who was quoted as declaring that 15 per cent of automobile accidents would be eliminated if women were forbidden to drive.

"Absurd," said members of the woman's vigilance committee of the Illinois Automobile club. "Comparatively few women are dangerous drivers. Many are thoughtful, it is true, and easily rattled, but they are not persistent speeders."

Coroner Hoffman, who has watched the speeding evil grow yearly for the last decade in Chicago, was also inclined to favor women drivers.

Hoffman Defends Women.

"It is the contrary, bull-headed driver who refuses to heed the law, smaller children from death under the and who speeds and drives recklessly whenever given half a chance, that is menacing Chicago," he said. "Last year but eleven women drivers were involved in the 660 automobile accidents which resulted in death. I believe woman drivers are heeding this splendid safety campaign and that their driving generally has improved more than that of the men."

Deputy Wagoner of the county police won the first conviction on the serious "driving while intoxicated" charge yesterday following his arrest of Dr. W. W. Johnston, 1415 Wesley avenue, on the Dempster street road. Dr. Johnston was taken before Justice of the Peace Max Witkower of Evanston and fined $50 and costs.

Maj. A. L. Denman, chief of the county road forces, ordered his men to make immediate arrests wherever they found trucks or passenger cars violating any law in a manner dangerous to other drivers or the public.

Chief Honors Safety Patrol Boy. Chief Fitzmorris, originator of the boy safety patrol, the membership of which reaches all the public schools, publicly recognized the work of his youthful safety guards yesterday by awarding official creditable mention to Frank Miller, 13, of the Franklin school.

The boy, who lives at 210 West Division street, leaped in front of a heavy car a few days ago and rescued two wheels. He risked his life to save the children when he saw the driver of the car could not stop in time to avoid striking the two, who were crossing the street near their school.

The chief violated police traditions in awarding the honor to one outside of the department.

MISSING TEACHER IS FOUND; MERELY CHANGED PLANS

Mystery surrounding the supposed disappearance of Miss Regina Williams, Indiana school teacher, last night faded into nothing more serious than a misunderstanding as to her destination when, last week, she left Montana, where she had been teaching school.

A few hours after George Williams, a farmer near Cannelburg, Ind., arrived in Chicago to direct the search for his daughter, press dispatches reported her safe with relatives in Indianapolis.

Miss Williams was to have visited relatives in Chicago, but changed her plans, dropping a card to her parents as she passed through the city. The search was started when she failed to appear at the Chicago home after a reasonable time.

BRYAN SENDS CHECK FOR $100 WITH A KNOCK

Morgantown, W. Va., April 27.—William Jennings Bryan has sent a check for $100 to Dr. R. C. Spangler, professor of botany in West Virginia university, as reward for answering certain questions on evolution put by Mr. Bryan in a recent address here.

Dr. Spangler is undecided whether he will accept the money because Mr. Bryan took the position he had proved nothing, and in the letter accompanying the check declared that "it is worth $100 to me to see a college professor guilty of cowardly evasion."

Mr. Bryan's challenge was to any university professor who could harmonize the Bible and the principles of evolution. Dr. Spangler undertook the task, claiming the reward.

REVOLTS SWEEP INTERIOR BRAZIL; GOVERNORS FALL

Special Board May Lull National Election Heat.

(Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.) [Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] RIO DE JANEIRO, April 27.—Although the government tries to distract from the importance of spurious movements in parts of Brazil, the political situation is serious in more than one locality. There is trouble in two and perhaps three southern states. Official confirmation has been received announcing the overthrow of the governor of the state of Maranhao, while rumors of a similar revolt in the state of Ceara have not been officially denied. Brazil is a loose federation of strong states, wherein the governors under the title of state presidents, are more powerful in their states than the federal president is over the entire federation. Seditious movements in the several states therefore, does not necessarily indicate any movement against the federal government, except to demonstrate serious political unrest in widely separated regions of the country.

Federal Troops Neutral.
The local character of the uprising is shown in the Maranhao revolt, where the federal troops remained neutral, while the state president was deposed by the opposition, which then established a provisional state government. Several state presidents have been in office so long that they have perfected political machines, which make opposition at the polls futile, and some are practically little dictators in their own states.

Long dissatisfaction over this situation has burst the bonds in several states, as the result of the closeness and bitterness of the national presidential elections. It is widely charged that the state machines under the governors rode over popular will. Hence the present effort to overthrow these machines.

Want Tribune to Decide.
The situation is admittedly tense, and several of the widest visioned leaders in Rio de Janeiro, including Marshall Fozza, are trying to persuade Signora Bernades and Pechanha to agree to the formation of a tribunal of honor to decide which has really been elected president.

U. S. Rail Board Elects New Officers, Starts Two Fights

With newly elected officers, the United States railroad labor board yesterday headed into two fights—one to repulse assaults upon its authority as a federal arbitration body and the other to forestall the threatened strike of 600,000 members of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor.

In connection with the latter it took definite action toward check-temperary, the practice under which certain carriers let out work to contractors not within the jurisdiction of the board and, therefore, not bound by its rulings. This practice is one of the chief grievances of the rail workers.

Ben W. Hooper, a member of the public group and former governor of Tennessee, was unanimously elected chairman of the labor board, to succeed R. M. Barton, who had served two years, or since the board came into existence. Mr. Hooper's name was placed in nomination by former Governor Barton, who last year received Hooper's support for the office. G. W. W. Hanger, also of the public group, succeeds Mr. Hooper as vice chairman of the board.

Concerning the suit in which the Pennsylvania railway obtained against which has taken unusual action in the present campaign, is backing the tribune of honor project.

So far local seditious movements have been reported from five states, and reports have been confirmed regarding Maranhao and Santa Catharina.

WOULD PUNISH SALOONKEEPER.
"Perhaps by punishing the man who sold the liquor we can strike at the root of the evil," said Judge Howard Hayes yesterday regarding Joseph Adams, saloonkeeper at 5308 Westmoreland avenue, charged with selling liquor to Edward Cook, who two weeks ago, when intoxicated, accidentally shot and killed his mother.

ST A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue, has officially decided that contributions to the Woodrow Wilson foundation are not deductible by taxpayers from their taxable income. The commissioner also made official rulings that contributions to the Roosevelt Memorial association and the McKinley Memorial association were exempt from federal taxation.

Commissioner Blair held that the Roosevelt Memorial association, organized to erect and maintain memorials to Theodore Roosevelt and to promote his policies and ideals, was an educational organization and that contributions to it, like those for religious and charitable purposes, were therefore not taxable under the income tax law.

McKinley Fund Also "Educational."
The McKinley Memorial association, organized to perpetuate the name and achievements of William McKinley and erect a monument and memorial building to him, was held to have an "exclusively educational" purpose.

In the face of these decisions Commissioner Blair ruled that the Woodrow Wilson foundation, organized to perpetuate Mr. Wilson's ideals of democracy and human freedom and to make awards to those who have rendered meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought, or peace through justice, is "civil and not educational" and that contributions to it are not deductible from income.

Denounced by Wilson's Friends.
The decisions have aroused indignation among friends of the Woodrow Wilson foundation. One of these said today that the rulings were absolutely conflicting. The avowed purpose of the Woodrow Wilson foundation, he said, was vastly more educational than the avowed purpose of either the Roosevelt or the McKinley memorials.

Restrained from Censure.
The injunction restrained the board from issuing a decision publicly censuring the Pennsylvania for failure to comply with a labor board order bearing on the open shop question. The failure of the federal court to vacate the injunction was generally regarded as a serious blow to the board's prestige. Chairman Hooper and Mr. Barton will leave for Washington Sunday to confer with Attorney General Daugherty and Solicitor General James M. Beck. They received a summons from the attorney general yesterday.

This was interpreted in some quarters as indication that Washington regards the labor board's fight as one involving the government's general policies.

Decision on Contract System.
In a telegram sent the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway, the board intimated a decision may soon be expected concerning the legality of the "contracting out" or "contracting system."

In this telegram the carrier, which has recently contracted some of its shop work at Sedalia, Mo., the labor board notified the road officials it had assumed jurisdiction of the dispute between the railway and its shop crafts employees.

Hearing of the case was set for May 4 and the board ordered that status quo as of a date prior to the contracting of work be maintained pending a decision.

Reinstatement of Blair.
The board's decision was a victory for Blair, who had been removed from the office of commissioner of internal revenue by the new administration.

Blair's removal was a blow to the Roosevelt Memorial association, which had been organized to erect a memorial to the late president.

NEW FIRST M. E. CHURCH PERMIT TANGLE BARED

Negotiations for a permit for the construction of the $3,500,000 Chicago Temple, on the site of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and Washington streets, have thus far failed. It was learned yesterday. It was announced a month ago that the old building would be wrecked beginning May 1.

The desire of the Methodists to crown the "loop's spiritual fortress" with a tower or spire reaching 140 feet above the building roof—which is to be 260 feet above the sidewalk—has caused Building Commissioner Bostrom to refer the questions involved to the city law department.

The spire as designed does not conform to the ordinance requirement that its height be no more than one-fourth of the building's frontage, according to Mr. Bostrom.

"It seems that in designing the edifice both the Clark and Washington street frontages were added together to make sufficient frontage to bring the tower within the ordinance," First Assistant Corporation Counsel Evers said. "Whether a building can have two fronts is the question involved."

City authorities emphatically denied a report that the difficulties over the permit have any connection with the refusal of the Methodist ministers to endorse the Rev. John H. Williamson, city hall law enforcer, whose pleas for law enforcement have been mingled with speeches lauding Mayor Thompson.

HOLD SUICIDE WAS INANE.
Suicide while temporarily insane was the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday in the case of Mrs. Mary Evans, 6031 Ellis avenue, wife of Policeman Joseph Evans, lockup keeper of the Grand Central police station, who shot herself.

GIVE THE STATE THE SHORT BALLOT.

The constitutional convention has voted for a provision for one election day a year, making that day a holiday. That simplification of elections eliminates some costs, but it does not add anything to the voter's ability to handle a ballot. It might increase his perplexities. The short ballot would decrease them. That is the simplification needed.

We have city, judicial, and general elections in Chicago to avoid complexities of issues. We have not wanted to throw the selection of judges into general elections and we have felt that city affairs were important enough to be separated from decisions made with regard to general county and state elections from federal elections.

A presidential election frequently is a dragnet. The head of the ticket pulls everything in. There is no discrimination. If a national party candidate makes a sweep of the county or state, virtually everything goes along with him. Some bad misfits get into office in that fashion.

Misfits make costly administration and that is greater waste than the expenditure of money in elections which give the voter the best chance possible to elect better officials. The provision for one election day a year does not stand on its own feet. If the convention wants to make it a good arrangement it will adopt the short ballot and bring that one election back within the power of the voter to obtain information and vote intelligently.

There is no excuse for the ballots which are submitted to the electors in these days. In the state and political divisions of the state a great many administrative officers are elected who ought to be appointed. In the state it is enough for the people to elect a governor and lieutenant governor for administrative purposes. That is the system employed for federal administration. In local administration it is reversed.

The proper election of elective officers is about indicated by the mayor and city council for city affairs, the county board and probably sheriff for county affairs, the governor and lieutenant governor and legislature for state affairs. Other elective officers are impositions upon the voters. They demand more than the voters can give.

Responsibility is put upon the electorate when it ought to be upon the chief administrative officer of the political division. We are learning that democracy is not improved by creating political conditions which seem to give all power to the people but do not. Nothing is gained by providing that the voters shall be bothered with elections only one day a year if on that day the ballot is so complicated that there cannot be an intelligent vote.

That will not save money, but will waste it.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW.

A reader of THE TRIBUNE protests against the inconsistency of the police in holding the man Meinhansen, in spite of the fact that a coroner's jury had set him free, and letting Blakart go free because another coroner's jury had refused to hold him.

"One man kills," writes our correspondent, "because he is full of liquor; the other kills because he is angry. Murder is murder, and what is good for one killer should be good for another."

An interesting and important topic. Thorough discussion of it would make a treatise on American social history and character. The inconsistency complained of by our reader is only another illustration of the American tendency to consider that public laws are not superfluous but are sometimes to be enforced and sometimes not. It turns concretely on the fact that the "unwritten law" which juries usually enforce as a mandate of justice higher than the written law.

Plausible defense of this extra- or super-legal conception is offered. It is interpreted as the expression of our instinctive protection of the weaker sex, of the sanctity of marriage, of the validity of parentage. It is justified as of necessary operation in a field of experience in which public law does not operate efficiently and private justice must be allowed to take its place. It is upheld as the expression of a social instinct deeper than written law and of an ideal of justice and private morals purer and higher than any explicit code attains.

There is some truth and perhaps a good deal in this defense. But we do not think it produces a satisfactory defense of the "unwritten law." In practice while this so-called law sometimes covers consequences which appeal to the private conscience as ideally just, it also assists an unthinking sentimentality to protect acts of violence which are intrinsically egotistic and unjust. The unwritten law is too vague and inapplicable to subject to passion and unthinking sentiment to be reliable as a guide either to justice in the individual case or to the general principles of welfare upon which a civilized society is founded.

But our correspondent puts his finger on the fatal weakness which disposes of the whole case for the unwritten law, when he says that "murder is murder." What he is thinking of is a principle fundamental in American civilization. It was enunciated early in our national life that ours should be a "government of laws and not of men." That, in our American belief, is essential to justice and to that ordered conduct of human affairs which is essential to progress and to common welfare. To allow the considered and definite rules of law to be set aside by the impulse or interest of the private will or conscience is to produce anarchy and to put the individual and the community at the mercy of the stronger or more violent or less scrupulous of its members.

The unwritten law is incompatible with this principle of ordered society and its effect is to weaken respect for all law. It is in some respects even worse than the duel, for the duel had a code and gave both parties to a controversy a chance. The unwritten law decrees that in matters of sex relation one of the parties may constitute himself or herself lawmaker, judge, jury, and executioner. This is to establish a government of men and not of law and throw us back to a stage of social evolution from which civilized men have worked steadily away, a stage of jungle law.

It is a serious weakness of American society that so many men and women think they are justified in ignoring public law because in a particular case it does not seem adequate. Instead of resolving to correct the law they refuse to fulfill it as it is, thus discrediting all laws and weakening the whole structure of the social organization which protects them and permits them to enjoy definite rights and privileges.

There are reasons in American history and environment for this weakness, but it may be hoped that we are moving away from these survivals of a cruder social stage toward a more intelligent respect for that regime of law which is conducive in the vast majority of individual cases to individual justice and essential to general security, welfare, and progress.

BARRING OUT A CUSTOMER.

Senator McCumber, chairman of the senate finance committee and chief sponsor of the tariff bill in the senate, opened the debate in favor of his measure with the assertion that while it would afford protection to American industry it would not increase the cost of living. The processes by which he arrived at such a conclusion are too involved for us. We shall not even attempt to follow them.

But the argument at least has the merit of appearing consistent with the processes by which the bill itself was involved. Unquestionably that is the purpose of the measure. Each detail of its schedule is designed by its proponents to afford protection for the individual industry involved without having any reaction upon other businesses or upon consumers in general. We do not believe that can be accomplished. More concrete arguments must be advanced in consideration of the bill.

For instance, what will be the effect of the measure upon our commercial relations with Canada? The Dominion, next to the United Kingdom, is America's best customer. The Canadians, particularly those of the great agricultural areas in the west, have had a taste of an American protective tariff in the emergency bill. They do not like it. They admit the right of the United States to adopt any tariff measures it sees fit, but they also recognize a growing spirit of bitterness toward this country developing in their provinces. They regret the loss to reciprocity and improved trade relations with the United States which the tariff on agricultural products has brought. They assert that the new tariff arrangements will do the farmers of Canada more harm than they will do good to the farmers of the United States.

Even if we discount such assertions and declare the tariff no worse than a fifty-fifty arrangement in so far as the agricultural advantages and disadvantages are concerned, we cannot ignore the probable results of the sentiment which is growing up in Canada. The people of the Dominion declare that the bill ignores the principle that a nation can not buy if it cannot sell. They say that United States trade with Canada has suffered under the emergency bill and will suffer more under the permanent bill. They say that if Canada cannot sell in the United States she will develop other markets and buy where she can sell. Unquestionably that is true. American farmers thus may not have to compete with Canadian farmers in the United States, but they will have to compete with them in foreign markets. And American wheat growers have a normal excess of 25 per cent of their crop which they must sell abroad. Thus the tariff will not eliminate competition. It will merely remove the point of that competition and at the same time it will tend to eliminate Canada as a customer for our great production of manufactured goods.

It is such arguments as this rather than the generalities uttered by Senator McCumber, which should be taken up in the senate's consideration of the bill.

DIGGING INTO MR. BRYAN'S PAST.

William J. Bryan will be well advised to cancel lecture dates and hurry back to Nebraska. Dr. Henry F. Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History says that a small tooth found in the faunal deposits of Nebraska has established the existence in America of a new type of anthropoid.

Some manlike animal wandered over from Asia, a being in structure intermediate between man and the anthropoid ape. Mr. Bryan may be justly alarmed by this. The reason is that he is digging in his tracks, seemingly with a malicious plan, and he may find excavating around Salem and Jacksonville, Ill., with a purpose too manifest to be ignored.

Editorial of the Day

THE IOWA CHAMPIONS.
(Poeira Journal-Transcript.)

Iowa farm journals and newspapers are carrying articles about four Iowa youths who are considered champions. None of them is a champion athlete or a champion singer or a champion baseball player, but all of them are champions according to the sensible Iowa standard.

Norman Haroldson is the champion corn grower of the state and has been awarded a gold medal for his expertness in raising an immense crop of corn on an acre of his father's farm.

John Simmekel is the champion student of carpentry in the state schools and has been awarded medals for having made various things with tools.

Miss Mabel Samuels is the champion cook of the grade school pupils and has been awarded medals for her culinary abilities.

Henry J. Smith is the champion live stock judge of the state among the high school pupils and will be taken to the International Fat Stock show this year to help in judging stock.

After all, the Iowa idea of champions is better than the ideas of some other states along that line. Iowa set out several years ago on a sensible campaign to keep the boys and girls interested in farm and country life. It was the theory of the leaders in the movement that if Iowa could partially solve her boy and girl problem she would be well along toward a settlement of the other problems of the commonwealth. Since the program started the state has developed a strong interest in agriculture in the young people, has developed an interest in the manual arts among the boys, and has interested the girls in household arts. Emphasis has not been placed on football in the grade and high schools, but athletics have not been glorified and the Iowa idea is kept up the state of Iowa will not be compelled to start a "back to the farm" movement twenty-five years from now.

The boy who is the champion corn grower is much more apt to be a great man than the boy who may be the champion automobile driver; and the girl who takes first prize in a fruit canning contest is much more apt to be a good home maker and community leader than the girl who has a reputation for wearing the finest clothes.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

—WE WERE JUST BEHIND YOU.

Dear lad, how you stir me! We were just behind you, Mac and Bob and I, in the roofless stables at the edge of the village, where the stonewall wined lay on the tiles from the fallen roof, and we strove to keep out the drizzling rain with a ward-tent spread across the tottering walls. Outside, the sky was aflame with the stabbing flashes of the guns, and the world rocked with their pulsing, throbbing thunder. Inside that ward there was a solemn hush, and the rolling thunder of the guns seemed to stop short at the door. For Death was there, though we fought him off with our bare hands, and toiled to beat back the devils of Pain. And presently daylight came, and drawn faces looked up at us from the huddled heaps of blankets; and then the supplies ran out, and our broken bodies began to shiver before Judge.

It is alleged Miss Moore has passed the Roche she shrieked and the typewriters rattled and the big guns rolled, until an obus found us, and the world went out in flame and clamor. Dear lad, how you stir me!

FARM LIFE IS SO HEALTHY.

ROM time to time since 1921, there were stories about the prevalence of typhoid fever.

During the very hot June and July the stories were that the disease had materially increased, and that the record for the year would be a bad one. Now the annual report of the Journal of the American Medical Association is available, and it was found that there was very little basis for the predictions. We did lose a little ground in the fight against typhoid fever in 1920, but the loss was trivial.

The typhoid rate of sixty-nine cities in which 28,000 people was 4 per 100,000, as compared with 3.7 the year before.

The total number of deaths in these cities was 1,138, being eighty-four more than in the preceding year. Thirty years ago Chicago was having more deaths from typhoid per year than occurred last year in the sixty-nine large cities of the country.

The place of honor again goes to Chicago, with its rate of 1.1.

Chicago has a lower rate than any other city, large or small.

Chicago, Minneapolis, Oakland, Des Moines, and Milwaukee are on the honor roll with rates that are lower than two New York and ten other cities have rates that are lower than three, though in each instance in excess of two.

Any city with a typhoid rate of less than three has a right to be compared with the healthiest and best governed European cities. I know of no city on the continent holding a record equal to that made by Chicago during the last three years.

It is difficult to keep down the typhoid rate in the southern cities, with their semi-tropical conditions and their large colored populations. Norfolk, Va., with a rate of 4.1, Baltimore, Louisville, Richmond, Memphis, and New Orleans, are in the same class.

The highest rate of all—Nashville, 29.4—is lower than the average rate of the best about twenty years ago.

The great typhoid problem of the present day is that of the groups of cities not included in the Journal lists. These cities are the large enough to have water works, but with less than 100,000 inhabitants. They have not been able to keep up with the procession.

The people in the villages and rural districts, who drink water from private wells and who have no sewer systems, are suffering from

NATIONS UNITED IN FEDERATION, PLAN OF WOMEN

Baltimore, Md., April 27.—[Special.]

Attempts to stampede the League of Women Workers for the League of Nations, under that name, was defeated in the convention today.

The women were led into endorsement of a world association by a side door. What they endorsed was a "Federation of the World."

The convention had had before it since last Monday the following resolution:

Resolved, That the National League of Women Voters asserts its conviction that the aim of all international peace efforts should be to outlaw war itself and to abolish it as a legalized institution, instead of to regulate it, and that to this end a code of international law, based upon equity and justice between individuals, be erected, by which the waging of war be made a crime defined and punishable under the terms of the code.

Mrs. Whitney Offers Amendment.

This resolution Mrs. Casper Whitney of New York moved to amend by the addition of the following provision:

"And, to promote this, that the League of Women Voters call upon the government of the United States to take such prompt action, in cooperation with other nations, as shall lead to a federation of the world for this purpose."

Presented in this way, it went through without a dissenting voice. This action was taken in spite of the declaration of Mrs. Richard Edwards of Indiana, first vice president, that any resolution, either for or against the league of nations, would be ruled out. She said there were members of the women's league on both sides of the question, and that the organization, as such, could not take sides.

Plan Call on Wilson.

That the arrangement made by Mrs. George Sevey of Chicago for the delegates desiring to do so to call on former President Wilson tomorrow in Washington was a "purely personal matter between those women and a man they know and honor, having nothing to do with the convention program or the League of Women Voters," was announced from the platform today by Mrs. Maud Wood Park, president of the league.

The final plans for the call on Mr. Wilson were made tonight at a "league of nations" dinner, which was attended by about 200 women. A leading figure at the dinner was Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of the Democratic national committee.

Declaring that the voters in the last presidential election had been "bamboozled and fooled" into believing that they would get a league of nations by voting for Harding, Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch of Evanston insisted that if they had a chance to vote as to whether they were for or against the league the country would have been found almost unanimously in favor of it.

Mrs. George Bass of Chicago said it would not do to work for an association of nations or any other organization formed or to be formed except the league of nations.

Then resolutions were adopted demanding the entrance of the United States into the league of nations.

Heated Debate on Working Hours.

There was a heated interchange at the convention today between the advocates of the minimum wage and the limiting of hours for women workers, and the opponents of the regulation through legislation of the wages or terms of employment of women in industry.

Mrs. Margaret Firth, a proponent on the New York Times and a member of the New York City League of Women Voters, made a dramatic protest against the program of the women in industry committee indorsing the limitation by legislation to not more than eight hours a day, forty-four hours a week, and one day's rest in seven.

Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chicago and Miss Ethel Smith of Washington, D. C., respectively president and legislative secretary of the National Woman's Trade Union league, entered vigorous objection, and Mrs. Robins said she "did not believe Mrs. Firth knew what she was talking about."

The program recommended by the committee was put to a vote without further discussion and carried.

12,000 HOMELESS AFTER LOUISIANA LEVEES CRUMBLE

Break Near New Orleans Causes Havoc.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—Twelve thousand men, women, and children were made homeless today by levee breaks at Poydras and Ferriday, La., while flood waters of the Mississippi river raced unchecked over Louisiana, smashing down crops, destroying live stock, and washing parts of villages away. Poydras is twelve miles south of here.

More than 4,000 flood refugees are being cared for in three tent colonies established at Harborsburg and Martinsville, La., and Natchez, Miss. Tents, food, blankets, and medical supplies are being distributed by Red Cross and other welfare workers.

Several persons were killed by the flooding of lowlands at Nacogdoches, Tex., seventy-five miles west of Shreveport.

Discovery of several of those reported missing in the flood at Fort Worth, Tex., reduced the list of missing and dead to thirty-four today. Seven bodies have been recovered. The property damage has been estimated at $2,000,000. Hundreds of homes have been swept away; others are cluttered with mud and debris. A layer of mud was deposited as high as the eaves of houses in Arlington Heights.

MAY DAY MOVING TO SET RECORD, GAS CO. REPORTS

Taking figures produced by the telephone and the gas companies as indications, more persons will move May 1 than on any May-day since there has been a housing shortage.

Requests for removal of service, coming to the office of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, between March 15 and April 22 of this year, totaled 19,815. For the same period of last year there were 17,273, a difference of 14.7 per cent.

About 3,000 requests a day for the discontinuance of service arrived at the contract department of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company in the last week. The number of removals, it is said, is 50 per cent higher than those of last year.

The "Over your home" movement, declared J. S. Warrington of the Chicago Real Estate board, has gained tremendous impetus in Chicago this year. He pointed to the hundreds of citizens who are moving into houses recently erected in the suburbs.

Vienna Population Shrinks as Deaths Exceed Births

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] VIENNA, April 27.—The population of Vienna is steadily declining. In March there were 3,100 deaths and 2,348 births. In February the deficit was 1,056. The loss is said to be due to the poverty of the middle class.

TUESDAY TO SEE FIRST TEST OF HARDING'S RULE

Indiana Primary to Bare G. O. P. Heart.

only question, say the Beveridge lieutenants, is whether the farmers who would register their discontent by voting for the former senator will go to the polls in sufficient numbers. If they don't, says the Beveridge camp, New will win.

All kinds of issues have entered into this contest, but the one that appears to be uppermost as the campaign nears the finish involves the war record of the two candidates. New, who is a Spanish war veteran and was conspicuous in furthering a vigorous prosecution of the war with Germany, has forced the fight on this line and Beveridge has been kept busy defending himself against a multitude of charges pertaining to his conduct during the war.

The prominence of this feature of the campaign was accentuated this afternoon by an address by Senator New to the War Mothers of Indianapolis. The senator, after alluding to his own modest part in the Spanish-American war as a captain in the quarter-master corps, told how he accompanied President Harding to New York to participate in the ceremony of receiving the bodies of 6,000 Americans killed in France.

While the War Mothers sat with heads bowed and handkerchiefs to eyes the senator repeated President Harding's cry on that occasion: "It must not happen again." Then Mr. New went on to show how the President is doing his utmost to prevent it from happening again, and how the achievements of the conference on limitation of armament constitute an earnest of Mr. Harding's aim. The War Mothers applauded his assertion that the international conference the President called had started the world on the road to disarmament.

Criticism Beveridge Book. Senator New gave in detail the vast expenditures of the government in the care of ex-service men, told how he paid a clerk out of his own pocket to look after soldier claims exclusively, and assured the War Mothers that a bonus bill would be passed at this session of congress. Partisans of Senator New have accused Mr. Beveridge of refusing to speak for the Liberty loans. The Beveridge camp answered that the former senator spoke widely for the Liberty loans and presented statements to that effect from the managers of the loan campaigns. To which the New partisans retorted that Beveridge spoke only for the fourth loan and then only after receiving an urgent request. The last word has not been spoken on this issue.

The New forces accuse Beveridge of pro-Germanism, asserting that his book entitled "What Is Behind the War" was excluded from public libraries at the instance of President Wilson and the American Library association. The Beveridge managers reply that the book was written before America got into the war, that it discussed the war issues impartially, that it told the truth when it called the German army the most efficient in Europe, and that it was excluded from libraries only because all books on Germany, including Carlyle's "Frederick the Great," were temporarily withdrawn as a war measure.

You Need Not Let Your Youth and Beauty Slip Away—Amazing Discovery of Science

Now Shows What Often Causes Premature Loss of the Charm and Attractiveness that Make a Woman Popular and Sought After Wherever She Goes

Many women at fifty, and even sixty, keep the grace of a well rounded face and figure and the clear rosy complexion and energy of buoyant health while others much younger often look scrawny and emaciated with pale sallow skin, wrinkles and shrunken tissues. The very latest scientific researches now show that a woman cannot have beautiful rosy cheeks, a well rounded figure, or an abundance of strength and energy unless her food contains plenty of Vitamins and her blood, sufficient organic iron to enable her body to assimilate them. In thousands of cases, a worn out, tired appearance, a bad complexion and an emaciated, angular figure, causing a woman to lose her charm and attractiveness, may be due only to malnutrition—lack of nourishment which is caused not by lack of food, but in many cases, by a diet lacking in Vitamins, or by lack of sufficient iron in the blood to enable you to get the strength and nourishment out of food and Vitamins. To correct this condition Nuxated Iron Tablets should be taken in connection with Nuxated Iron.

Nuxated Brand Genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets are a pure and unadulterated vitamin product. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in highly condensed form, so that the two taken together, Vitamins before meals so as to mix with your food and Nuxated Iron to help build millions of new red blood corpuscles, furnish both of these necessary elements.

To prove to you the surprising results which we feel should be quickly obtained from this valuable combination, arrangements have been made with druggists in this city to give you a REGULAR PACKAGE OF GENUINE YEAST VITAMIN TABLETS, ABSOLUTELY FREE with your purchase of a bottle of organic Nuxated Iron. If you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

NO LABOR NO COAL NO ASHES

Install It Now and Stop That Furnace Work and Worry

KLEEN-HEET burns oil—and you don't shovel oil. It trickles silently, without effort on your part, through a tiny pipe to KLEEN-HEET where it is converted into a white hot fire within your present heating plant, automatically!

No fuss! No bother! No coal to shovel. No shaking. No ashes to empty. No dust or dirt to ruin furnishings and endanger health. Just KLEEN-HEET, any degree you wish, from fall's first chilly nights clear through wildest winter blizzards and spring's last cool days.

KLEEN-HEET is the springtime short cut to real comfort next winter. And right now is the time to install it, to clean up that basement, to free yourself and loved ones forever from the nuisance, the work and worry of dirty coal.

Don't Put It Off Another Minute!
Make Your Home Really Modern.

Shoveling coal and emptying ashes is no fun. You don't want your wife to be a janitor, either. But you do want a cozy, warm, carefree home next winter—don't you? Telephone us NOW before you lay this paper down or write your name on the blank below and we will supply you information about

INDIA VILLAGES ENROLL 400,000 AGAINST BRITISH

Oudh District Arms Under Moslem Chief.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
DELHI, April 27.—A new cause for anxiety has confronted the British government through the activities of a branch of the noncooperation movement in the Oudh district of the United Provinces. Its basis is purely agrarian, and its object is to prevent the zamindars, or landowners, on the large landed estates from paying taxes or co-operating with the government.

The movement has taken the name of Aika, or Call of Unity, and already has enrolled 400,000 villagers in its ranks. The leader of the movement is a Mohammedan named Madari Pasi, who has been associated for some time with the noncooperation movement. But he is disassociated with the progress made by Gandhi, and believes the tenets of nonviolence are holding back the movement.

Arms for Men.
Under his direction volunteers are being enrolled, armed with swords, spears, and some rifles which they have received from over the border or stolen from British armories. At present the government has no reliable estimate of the number of armed men he controls.

The first open act of violence was the murder of a Mr. Grant, deputy commissioner of the district, and the British police claim that this murder, before it was committed, was discussed and sanctioned at a meeting of Aikawallas. That occurred some days ago, and since that time petty acts of violence have been reported from all parts of the district.

Fear of Campaign.
The propaganda campaign of the Aika is well organized, and, while it is now confined to the Oudh, the government fears that, unless it is checked immediately, the movement soon will spread to the whole of the United Provinces. Two thousand additional police have been authorized to aid those now stationed in the district, and a fleet of fifty Ford trucks with capacity of fourteen passengers has been purchased for the rapid transport of the police.

While the movement is the direct outgrowth of noncooperation propaganda, it has gone far beyond the bounds of Gandhi's announced program in that it sanctions all forms of violence. Highly inflammatory speeches call upon those who take the Aika oath to drive out or murder the British. The district police have forwarded copies of fifty different pamphlets and poems which are being sold at a fair profit to aid the cause, and have called for the organization of "Khalafat volunteers" to drive out the British government and kill all Englishmen. The propaganda is conducted mostly along religious lines, the leaders of the movement calling for a Jihad, or holy war.

Oath of Violence.
The Aika oath, which is the expression of a feeling among the peasantry for more liberal treatment and lower ground rents, tells the story of disaffection which has made possible the rapid growth of the society. The oath calls upon members of the Aika not to leave the fields when legally ejected, to pay only recorded rent, to pay rent only twice a year, to refuse payment for water used to irrigate the fields and for grazing ground in jungle and party land, to brook no interference from the zamindar in respect to land cultivation, and to preach the Aika doctrine of noncooperation in the villages.

Although payment of rents regularly is counseled, zamindars are threatened with stoppage of rents and violence if they contribute to the government in taxes or any other way.

The leader, Madari Pasi, has set up a capital at Mohungani, a village not far from Lucknow, which he has renamed Mohunkher. From it he is issuing mandates to the zamindars and sending out bands to collect "contributions" from villages for the advancement of the movement.

Secret Pages of Irish History Revealed.

joined the Sinn Feiners after the armistice in 1918.

Three soldiers were killed and six wounded in fighting soon after day-break between official and unofficial forces of the Irish republican army at Mullingar where the feeling between the factions is high due to the murder of Brig. Gen. Adamson at Athlone.

A loyal officer, approaching former Royal Irish constabulary barracks, where the mutineers were quartered, with a message with reference to the release of six of his own men, was fired upon and soldiers waiting for him in the street were wounded. The official forces took up positions and returned the fire.

Fire on Freed Men.
A message was delivered later to the commander of the irregulars, and the six prisoners were exchanged. On leaving they were fired upon, and the fighting was resumed for fifteen minutes. A number of machine guns, rifles, and twenty-five mutineers in a lorry were captured.

The mutineers later moved to the courthouse, where the others were billeted. Maj. Gen. McKeown, commanding the district, arrived and ordered the irregulars to evacuate, which they did this evening.

Three Men Killed.
Three business men in Dunmanway, County Cork, were taken from their homes last night and shot dead. They were Francis Fitzmorris, a lawyer; W. T. Grey, a chemist, and James Buttiner, a dry goods merchant. It is not known at present whether the motive was political or religious. Michael Collins was born about three miles from Dunmanway, and it is his political district.

The publicity department of Dail Eireann has the following letter, which was received by Father Lavery of St. Patrick's parochial in Belfast:

"This is to inform you that should the Sinn Feiners or the Irish republican army continue to take over Protestant halls and places of worship in Dublin and elsewhere, we, the Orangemen, will take some concrete action around Belfast and turn the nuts into the street. You had better write the lord mayor of Dublin, and you cannot say that you did not get notice."

Masonic Halls Seized.
The mutineers of the Irish Republican army have taken over Masonic halls in Galway and Ballinasloe and have hoisted republican flags over them.

Commenting on the official report of the attempt to burn the trans-Atlantic steamer Rathline in Dublin, a member of the port docks board asserted that Belfast ships were to be ostracized, and another characterized the act as justifiable.

The editor of the Clonmel Nationalist has been ordered to submit all copy to the mutineers before it is published.

HOOVER RELIEF CLOSES SHOPS IN CENTRAL EUROPE

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, April 27.—[By Tribune Wireless.]—Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the American relief administration, left London today for a final tour of the American relief administration offices at Prague, Warsaw, and Vienna, which are the last survivors of the American relief administration work in central Europe. They will close in June of this year.

Mr. Brown is liquidating the administration's business and inquiring as to plans for child feeding after the American relief organization withdraws. Poland already has passed necessary legislation for this work, and the American relief administration is trying to have similar laws passed in Hungary and Austria.

The American relief administration now ceases to function in Europe outside of Russia and the Baltic states. Since its initiation by Herbert Hoover in Belgium it has fed every nation in Europe which suffered from the war, and it placed the United States in deeper color on the world's map of philanthropy.

The whole strength of the American relief administration will now be thrown into Russia, the Ukraine and the Volga valley.

According to an announcement in London today by the American relief administration Russia has inaugurated plans for the inoculation of 1,000,000 people against five diseases, including typhoid, paratyphoid, smallpox and cholera.

Known and prescribed by the Medical Profession for many years as possessing great medicinal properties.

BONUS BILL IS ALMOST READY FOR THE SENATE

Tariff to Give W Early Passage

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[United Press.]—Such satisfactory progress is being made in redrafting the bonus bill that the measure will be ready for introduction in the senate within a week.

The tariff will then be a foregone conclusion, and efforts will be made to speed it through with a minimum of delay. It is impossible to forecast how much time will be consumed, but some senators believe the bill will be limited to seven days.

Annual Cost of $100,000,000.
The finance committee is expected to keep the annual cost of the bonus bill within a $100,000,000 limit, this way to minimize the opposition to the measure. It is expected that new modifications will be submitted to the treasury department at a meeting.

Details of the Plan.
In a general way the measure seems to have made up its mind. The cash bonus will be $50 maximum, and those entitled to cash bonuses will be paid in installments. The land settlement fund will be modified to adjust the cash bonus scheme so that it will be the order of a twenty year insurance policy, but with a loan provision retained. The date when the adoption becomes available will be January, 1923, instead of 1922.

BONUS BILL IS ALMOST READY FOR THE SENATE

Tariff to Give Way for Early Passage.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—Such satisfactory progress is being made in redrafting the bonus bill that Senator McCumber (N. D.), chairman of the finance committee, predicts today that the measure would be before the senate with the committee's endorsement within a week.

The tariff will then be sidetracked and efforts will be made to put the bonus bill through with all possible speed. It is impossible to forecast how much time will be consumed in debate, but some senators believe that discussion will be limited to several days.

Annual Cost of $100,000,000.
The finance committee is trying to keep the annual cost of the bonus within a $100,000,000 limit, hoping in this way to minimize the administration's opposition to the measure. They propose to hold down the cost by limiting the borrowings which may be made against whatever character of securities it is decided to give the ex-service men.

Details of the Plan.
In a general way the committee seems to have made up its mind not to restore the cash bonus provision, to retain the $50 maximum applicable to those entitled to cash bonuses, to eliminate the land settlement feature, and to modify the adjusted service certificate scheme so that it will be more on the order of a twenty year paid up insurance policy, but with some sort of a loan provision retained.

The date when the adjusted compensation becomes available probably will be January, 1923, instead of October, 1922.

It is the purpose of the committee to make the expense of the bonus as light as possible during the first year.

WOMAN BURGLAR ADMITS GUILT AND BLAMES HUSBAND

Mrs. Lucille Hanley, who with her husband, Frank Hanley, shares the title of "the Chicago reform burglar" and a charge of burglary, now on trial before Judge John R. Caverly, took the witness stand yesterday and tearfully laid her downfall to her husband.

She admitted having taken dresses and suits from the home of Mrs. Josephine Walker, 3345 Irving Park boulevard, where she was employed as a maid for one day, but said her husband forced her to do it.

Lucille also appeared to have no made tendencies. Under cross-examination by Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Ramsey she admitted having lived at a dozen different addresses in the last year.

Robert A. Thompson, a veterinarian, 811 Cicero avenue, when asked by Prosecutor Ramsey whether he had ever been the victim of a burglary, emitted a decided affirmative.

MORSE INDICTED WITH 23 OTHERS IN SHIPPING CASE

New York, April 27.—Charles W. Morse, New York financier, his three sons, and twenty others, some prominent in shipping, legal and brokerage circles, were accused in a federal indictment today with having used the mails to defraud investors in the stocks of various steamship companies.

The aggregate authorized capital of the sundry corporations ran into scores of millions of dollars and included the United States Steamship company and its subsidiaries, United States Transport company, Inc., and the holding organization known as the United States Shipping corporation.

The "principal defendants" were charged with conspiring since May, 1919, to defraud investors and put their alleged swindling scheme into effect by use of advertising matter sent through the mails.

These men, the indictment alleged, have since May, 1919, conspired to defraud investors, with a view to their own profit, by divers schemes and artifices.

Among these was alleged misrepresentation in advertising that the United States Steamship company, with an authorized capital of $25,000,000, and its underlying companies, such as the Croton Iron works, Virginia Shipbuilding company, and Hudson Navigation company, were going concerns with large contracts, both governmental and private, for building and repairing ships and carrying freight, and that they were paying bona fide dividends and were backed by valuable assets, and that, therefore, to buy stocks in these organizations would prove profitable to investors both in speculation and in dividends.

EDMUND A. WEST, A. G. O. P. FOUNDER, IS 99 YEARS OLD

Edmund Abbott West, one of the founders of the Republican party, will celebrate his ninety-ninth birthday today at the home of a cousin, Mrs. D. J. Jones, 919 Hinman avenue, Evanston. Mr. West's recipe for a happy old age is as follows: Never smoked, never drank intoxicating liquors, kept temper, eight hours' sleep every night, regularly in habits. He is not in the best of health just now and the celebration today will be limited to the visit of a few old friends. Mr. West is the oldest living alumnus of Oberlin college. He is fond of telling of the birth of the Republican party in Michigan in 1854.

$82 Spent for Paint
Brought a $1,500 Loan
on This House

"Finding it necessary to place a mortgage on a small dwelling which I owned, I had the property inspected by an appraiser to learn that he advised his company to reduce the amount of insurance on the house by one-third.

"The best loan I could get was $800, which I rejected. In talking with a real estate friend, the condition of the paint came up. I told him the house was about four years old and had never been painted. He said, without hesitation, 'That is the cause of your trouble.' I immediately invested $82 in a standard brand of ready mixed paint and had two coats of paint put on the house for $40. This $82 investment made my house look so much better that I had no difficulty in securing a loan of $1,500 and my insurance policy, instead of being reduced, was increased one-third."

MEDILLIANS GET SOME ADVICE ON WRITING BOOKS

BY EYE WITNESS.

Amazing are the resources of the modern technical school. It is speed and facility of travel today that make those resources not a matter of wonderment but almost of routine. Within forty-eight hours a specialist on a given subject travels 1,800 miles, lays the fruits of his learning and experience before students in an hour, receives his round of hearty applause

WILLIAM HARLOWE BRIGGS.

—and is back again in his office or his laboratory.

Some Advice for Authors.

William Harlowe Briggs, chief literary executive of the publishing house of Harper & Bros. of New York City, was last evening's lecturer at Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern University. He took it for granted that in his large audience of students and public was many a potential writer of books, and into his hour's discourse he packed all the information that the groping author is ever seeking, and learning usually only through heartache and costly delay. It was handsomely and expeditiously performed, and the auditors were most interested and grateful.

Mr. Briggs not only gave them the fruits of his fifteen years of service with the Harpers but also a store of profitable counsel drawn from the lessons of the more than a century of the firm's existence.

Gives Infinite Detail.

The merchandising of literature, the making of contracts between publisher and author, the methods of promotion with booksellers, the most detailed information as to costs, trends, standards, and the general psychology of getting books before the public were explicitly set forth, and an immense amount of cant and misinformation was cleared away. The lecture was at once a monograph on technique and a live, hearty talk.

Mr. Briggs emphasized the fact that in the great publishing houses not one but three expert readers pass upon manuscripts received, and all read and report independently. With his firm the number of book manuscripts received runs to 200 a week—10,400 a year.

Breasting Flood of Trash.

The first reader is really a weeder. His job is to sense whatever qualities of freshness, interest, and power a manuscript may possess. His written opinion is brief. He ever is breasting a flood of mostly trash. To survive it, to keep hoping, is also part of his job.

The second reader works carefully—in short, critically—and writes a much longer opinion. The function of the third reader is to examine from a different angle what has passed readers one and two. Then comes the "determining mind" of the firm for the final decision.

Reason for a Publisher.

"Why a publisher anyway?" was one of Mr. Briggs' queries, and this his answer: "It is true that a whole book can be manufactured in a week. Now, if that were all in getting a book before the public you would do better to go to a good book printing plant here in Chicago and have your book printed. Then what would happen? Just exactly nothing. In a word, printing is not publishing."

This took the lecturer into the highly organized and costly department of book merchandising: the making of dummies, the promotion and, as a part of a fierce game, the extremely precarious nature and preposterously small profit (8 cents per volume) of most publication ventures in fiction.

Grains from Storehouse.

Some opinions of general application which Mr. Briggs drew from the storehouse of experience were:

The day that your new novel is put on the booksellers' counters one other new novel will be put there also. This is another way of saying that two new novels are published in this country every business day in the year. The exact figures for last year were 778 new novels. Startling—yes. More startling the grand total of new books published last year—8,422.

H. L. Menckens once said in print—and in an unguarded moment—that he would agree to place any good novel that was sent him. He received 500 novels. Three were published. One was a success. I don't mind telling you it was "Zeb." He also drew two lawsuits for lost manuscripts. He never repeated that offer. I know a good many publishers. There is no millionaire among them.

PUBLISHERS FOR FREE PRESS AND ARBITRATION

New York, April 27.—Members of the American Newspaper Publishers' association in their annual convention here today adopted a resolution expressing "determination to resist all interference with the rights of its members and of the press to free expression under the constitution's guarantee."

The convention adopted two sets of resolutions relating to trade agreements with the several printing trades. One instructed the board of directors to establish an open shop division of the A. N. P. A.

On the subject of the controversy with the Typographical union that under Section 9 of its rules all questions which are subject to international union law are not subject to arbitration, the publishers decided to stand on their original demand for arbitration of all questions and so instructed their committee.

5th Annual USED AUTO SHOW and Accessories

COLISEUM April 26th to May 4th

Auspices of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association

OPEN FROM 10 A. M. TO 10 P. M. DAILY AND SUNDAY

AIM AND PURPOSE: The annual used car show is conducted by the Chicago Automobile Trade Association (an organization not operated for profit), to give the public an opportunity to inspect and purchase the many wonderful values the used car market affords at bargain prices and acquaint themselves with the responsible dealers in used cars whose principal business is the selling of new cars.

All Chicago Endorses Show

Each year the public expresses its approval of the used car show idea by an increase in attendance.

It is now as popular as the National Automobile Show.

The show proves itself a convenient market place for wise buyers who want to save time and effort in needless indiscriminate shopping.

OVER 1000 TO CHOOSE FROM

Variety is the keynote of this season's show. The car your heart is set on—precisely like the new model you saw advertised—is here, full of gas and ready to go! The selection includes touring cars, roadsters, sport models, coupes, sedans, broughams, limousines in 4, 6, 8 and 12 cylinders. Some with vivid new paint jobs rich

Buy Now—Save Money

Never before has the Used Car Market offered so many genuinely attractive values as now.

Reduced prices in new cars created a corresponding reduction in used cars, resulting in an ideal time to buy.

There are extraordinary values this year. Your one opportunity to buy a car on which the other fellow has paid the war tax, freight and first year's depreciation.

in color, others with modish bucket lamps. All in excellent mechanical, driving and riding condition. Special custom-built jobs, finely proportioned bodies of the most modern design. A real sight to feast your eyes upon if you have the slightest idea of owning a car 100% in performance, appearance and reliability at only a fraction of its original cost.

TRIPLE ENDORSEMENT YOUR GUARANTEE

Every car carries the endorsement of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association—the stamp of the Expert Inspection Committee—the individual guarantee of the Dealer. No inflated valuations here. Every car is priced at its true worth.

IDENTIFICATION

At the 5th Annual Used Auto Show each car as it passes inspection will have sealed on it, in a conspicuous place, an Inspection Card. The car thus approved has measured up to all requirements.

It further indicates to the buyer that a Board of Experts has declared it mechanically right and priced right. The price will also be shown very plainly. You can't make a mistake and you pick your car by an expert's judgment.

COME TO THIS SHOW RESOLVED TO BUY YOUR CAR NOW!

INSPECTION

All cars must pass the rigid inspection of a Board of Experts, competent judges, selected for their known mechanical ability and integrity by the Chicago Automobile Trade Association. They determine the price and adjudge the mechanical condition of each car.

Only cars that meet the rigid standards set by the Chicago Automobile Trade Association and can pass inspection by the experts are allowed to be put on sale.

SUMMER STATE CAUSES NOISE IN WIRELESS

Many Amateur Operators
Having Trouble

BY CHARLES SLOAN

"What's all the noise about? Don't we hear the concert as we used to?"

Hundreds of these queries are being asked these days. The answer is: "The static."

For the last week or so Chicago has been having moist and fairly warm weather. This is the reason for the static.

According to George H. Janss, director of publicity for the Western Electric and Manufacturing Company's Chicago branch, this atmospheric disturbance is heard until next winter.

"The electricity generated in the air is our lightning—is the kind of electricity which forms radio waves," he said last night.

"When there is a lot of this static in the air its waves interfere with the same as the waves of messages hit them. Both are absorbed in the receivers. Scientists are working on the problem of getting this trouble for many years. A satisfactory cure has not yet been reached.

Power Increased.

"To help overcome it stations are now virtually doubling their power. This is the reason they hear right through the static electricity. Our new station is finished by May 15.

"This new flood of power will come to some extent in our district mustn't expect, however, to clearly in the summer as in the winter. There's sure to be some disturbance in the winter season starts.

New books received are "Make Your Own Radiophone" published by Charles Raymond, Inc., and "Radiophone Radio from the Presses of D. Van Nostrand Company. The first gives instructions on how to build a crystal set. The second is of little use to reading more than five miles broadcasting station. The latter is a compilation of essays from pens of nine of the world's best radio experts, and should prove valuable to both the experienced and to the layman. It is perhaps the best non-technical written in the industry now on the market.

Station WGY of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y., broadcast another late concert using the full power of the program starts at 10:30 Chicago time, and should be heard on all regenerative sets.

Radio inquiries and news should be addressed to the Radio Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

THE GUMPS - A GOOD LAWYER WITH A TOUGH JOB

I'D SETTLE THIS OUT OF COURT IF I WERE YOU - IT'S HARD PUBLICITY AND IF SHE SWEARS SHE HAS NO DIARY HER WORD IS AS GOOD AS YOURS - I DON'T THINK YOU HAVE A CHANCE - IT'S JUST A QUESTION OF HOW MUCH JUDGMENT SHE GETS -

I'VE GOT MY NEPHEW OVER AND TRIED TO SETTLE THE CASE OUT OF COURT BUT SHE WOULDN'T LISTEN TO HIM - SHE SAID WE'D HAVE TO GO AND SEE HER ATTORNEY - I BELIEVE WE CAN GET A BETTER DEAL FROM A JURY THAN WE CAN FROM HER ATTORNEY - I'VE MY OWN EXPERIENCE WITH LAWYERS -

THERE ISN'T A CHANCE TO SQUARE THIS OUT OF COURT - SHE'S SUEING HIM FOR A MILLION - SHE WANTED TO MARRY HIM FOR HIS MONEY - IF YOU OFFERED HER $50,000 SHE'D LAUGH AT YOU - SHE'S GOT VISIONS OF TIPPING OVER THE MINT - I WAS OVER TO HER HOUSE AND SHE SAT THERE SCATCHING THE PALM OF HER HAND WITH A WIRE BRUSH -

HOPE - THERE'S NOTHING DOING AS FAR AS SHE'S CONCERNED - WE HAVE TO GO TO SAT AND STAND THE CONSEQUENCES - SHE'S A WOMAN WHO WON'T BE SATISFIED TILL SHE SELLS HIM WALKING AROUND IN A BARREL - SHE THREW THE BAIT TO UNCLE AND HE TOOK THE CORK UNDER -

Haines Engel came all the way from Dubuque, Ia., to win a draw last night in a match with Johnny Meyers, which was camouflaged as a match for the mid-championship of the world. About 3,000 people saw the go which was staged in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium.

In addition to the last bout, Haines tried to stage a static battle with Johnny Meyers in the event, but that being against the law in our fair city, the local athletic commission would not give its sanction.

Referee Lavine's decision calling off this second battle and declaring a draw, first a draw, probably will result in the pair being seen together in a return engagement in Dubuque. The fans out there just can't believe that Johnny is master of Haines, so they probably will be shown something in the near future.

Engel Works Headlock.
From the spectators' standpoint it was a corking good bout. There was action every minute from the tap of the go until the eighth and final round closed. Engel repeatedly put his headlock on Meyers. The latter's advertised defense was lacking, although there wasn't one of the holds that he did not break. In many instances it took him some time to turn the trick.

In retaliation the local lad clamped on the double wrist lock and body scissors, and punished the visitor until Haines winced on several occasions, but when the dust had blown away Referee Lavine saw it was a draw, and as such it will go in the records.

Ben Reuben is Easy.
The bout between Paul Frahn and Ben Reuben proved a bloomer. In that Reuben failed to live up to expectations and had to be warned by the referee to do more wrestling or there would be an early decision. So in the fourth round, Reuben showed Carl Furuseth had no trouble showing George Peters, who went to the mat with a front kick knife after 2:30 of the third round.

SKATE DEAD HEAT IN

PRO TEAM ROLLER RACE

A dead heat in the five mile professional team event featured the third night's racing in the International Roller Skating Derby at Broadway armory last night.

East Orange, N. J., teamed with Jack Woodward of Atlantic City, N. J., sprinted neck and neck with Victor Fraasch and Al Krueger of Chicago, and finished on even terms in 14:09.35.

Krueger won the half mile sprint, with Joe Laury of Chicago second, and Midge Reiff, San Francisco, third. Krueger skated a great race, judging his pace excellently and sprinting the final lap to beat out Laury by a scant yard. Krueger's time was 1:25.15.

Skirvans Wins Again.
William Skirvans of the Opal A. added ten points to his total by winning his third amateur race of the meet. Skirvans has a total of thirty points. The Opal skater was in great form, winning over William Ulrich of the Twenty-fourth Ward club by three yards. Harry O'Connell of Opal A. was third.

Clonk tonight will skate a special half mile match race with Al Krueger. A series of sprint races at one-quarter, one-half, one mile and a ten mile team event will form the professional program, while the amateurs will skate a three mile race. It will be White City Roller club and Alton club night.

Another crowd of 2,000 fans turned out for the races. Summaries:

The Woman He Forgot

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.
Mrs. Clifton, beautiful and young, although the mother of a 19 year old son, returns to England after an exile of seventeen years, when she learns that her son is in love with a woman years older than she. Nora's real name is Helen Thorpe, whom she loved devotedly, and who loved her in return. She was married to a man who loved her, and by her own fault she was cast out of his home. She was married to a man who loved her, and by her own fault she was cast out of his home. She was married to a man who loved her, and by her own fault she was cast out of his home.

Nora and her son quarrel about Lady Helen, whom he has already married, but Helen, who knows her allowance from her divorced husband would cease if the news of the marriage got out, forces Bill to keep it secret even from his mother. Lucien discovers it, and tells him and to tell him who she is, but she finds she is happy to be near him. Nora, who is a woman of great spirit, by means of which she supported her child and herself in a newspaper she secures a position as manager of a music publishing company which is owned by Mrs. Margery, Lady Helen's ex-husband. Bill is distressed when he hears of this.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.
A FAMILY TEA.
"Bill, it's difficult to tell you, Mrs. Flute said I ought to have done so long ago, and now I realize she was right. Only I didn't want you to feel that I was making a personal plea to you. If it hadn't been for your infatuation for Helen Margery I certainly would have told you."

He stirred restlessly at the word "infatuation."
"Told me what?" he asked, drawing in his under lip, which was a sign of reserved displeasure.
"I've let you think that my voice only needs resting, and that I'm taking a holiday meanwhile. But Bill, I'll never sing again—not a note. I can't even teach singing. And I haven't got much money."

"For weeks I've been answering newspaper advertisements, and Mr. Margery's was one of them. Incidentally, the only reply I got was from him, and that was two weeks after I had written. When I answered the advertisement I didn't even know his name."

The boy looked at her in stunned silence; then suddenly he plunged his foot into the pines of his hands, trembling violently.
"I hated to bother you," Mrs. Flute said weakly. She drew her head down on her breast.
"Darling, you can't blame me for taking this job. I—I don't want to cover, either."

"O, my God!" he groaned.
"Bill, you can't be so utterly heartless!"
He stumbled to his feet, and the agony, the utter wretchedness of his distorted face punished her cruelly for all the self-indulgence of spoiling him. This revelation would either make or break him. She feared the latter.

"Why don't you take a whole lot of love?" he demanded hoarsely.
"Does a mere worthless old exist, I wonder? How have you managed to endure?"
"But you should have told me. It would have made such a difference, matter, if only you'd told me at once—when it happened. I mean about your singing. We were always so gay, so prosperous. Do you remember last summer when we were motoring in Alabaster—through that little village where the children booted us and called us 'new rich' and 'millionaires'?"

"Yes—of course, I remember. But—" She was utterly bewildered.
"And you were so hurt and angry."
"Yes, and you said that because of my white fur coat I looked like a prince and you didn't blame them for thinking we were rolling in money."
"Exactly. You always looked prosperous, mother. It always seemed to me you had the wealth of the world at your command."

"Bill, was it a wicked fool I've been?"
"Never mind calling yourself names. I'd rather you'd call me a few." He was walking to and fro now, hands thrust deep into his pockets. The stern look of Lucien was on his face. The dumb agony had smoothed out a little.
"I must explain to Helen," he said. "And, of course, I'm not going back to Balliol. That's absolutely settled. Have you thought, mother, there are quite a lot of capable men in this world who've never so much as dreamed of a university? And I wonder now many had to give it up after a year or two? Are they any the worse?"

"O, Bill, it does seem such a pity!"
"That's not the real pity. It ought to make you weep just to look at me—just to contemplate the object that all your goodness and self-sacrifice has reared. Don't cry, mother dear. I don't mean you to weep, really. Look here, dear, have a little more patience with me. Give me a little time. I'm in rather a hole, but it will be all right before long."

Hope, which had only deserted Nora temporarily, flooded back into her heart. She thought she understood what he meant by being in a hole—the engagement by which he was bound to Lady Helen Margery. That they were actually married had never occurred to her. And in her maternal solicitude for him she was cunning enough to take advantage of the situation. How altogether sensible Fanny Flute had been when she said Bill ought to be told at once how matters really stood. His mother had no right to love him to his utter ruin. This was the first chance she had given him to play the man. He must take his life into his own hands now. It was only fair.

In a little while she was convinced that the shadows were passing over. Her inextinguishable optimism, backed up by Bill's goodness, brought the sunshine again.
She made tea while he cut bread and buttered it. They were quite merry about the future, and she never once suspected that Bill's tender gaiety covered an immense pity for herself. She took his point of view that it didn't in the least matter whether the pursuit of Greek and Latin.

"Yes, I know, Billy. It's quite true we must accept life as it comes. I always did. Only for you—well, I wanted you to have the best. Sometimes it seemed as though I'd be robbing you of your birthright if I didn't give you all yours—your father would have given you, had he lived."
"I've never missed my father," Bill said. "But you must have."
Nora handed him the tray and he carried it into the big studio room. It was an attractive room now, and if one had vision one could always see the river flowing and overlook the unsightly factory chimneys in between. The door bell rang, and Nora rushed. She knew quite well who it was. She had been rather dreading a question from Bill as to who had sent the flowers which filled half a dozen bowls and jars. He probably took for granted that she had bought them herself.

"I wonder who that can be," she remarked hypocritically.
He got up and went to the door.
"O, how do you do?" she heard him say, with enough hospitality, but no more, in his voice. "Come in; you're just in time for tea. Mater, it's Mr. Thorpe."
For the first time since Bill was a baby they were alone together—father, mother, and son; and only one of them knew it.

"I hope I'm not a nuisance."
Nora smiled and offered him her hand.
"Not a bit of it. On the contrary. Thank you for the flowers. They are simply lovely, and I meant to spend quite a long time this evening writing to tell you how much I appreciate them."

Bill looked blankly from one to the other. He had been going on the reasonable assumption that Lucien was in love with his wife. The man who might have been his friend—and wanted to be visualized as something in the nature of an enemy.
"Billy, another cup."
His mother's voice had changed a little. It was nervous and sprightly. "What's the news? Found that job yet?"

The confidential tone of Thorpe stung Bill. Mr. Thorpe knew of her difficulties, it seemed. She had told him.
"O, yes—that's all right," she replied hurriedly, as though it were a matter of no consequence.
But Lucien wanted details. Secretly he had raged at her plight. Again and again it had been on the tip of his tongue to offer her—what? Certainly not work. It offended him that she should be in need of it; and, indeed, he realized no more than Bill how desperately she did need it.
"It's with a musical publishing company," she said. "A company that's been reorganized, and, as far as I can gather, my job is that of a general handy man. I'm to superintend building alterations, to begin with. But don't let's talk about that."

She was so afraid Margery's name would crop up again. Bill must not be humiliated any more than was necessary.
The young man had become gloomy and embarrassed. He wanted to sound Lucien on the subject of the employment which had been tentatively offered him, but somewhere at the back of his arrogant mind there lurked resentment. Bill could not rid himself of the torturing belief that Lucien Thorpe had once been all too fond of Helen. Was he to accept favors from his wife's old lover any more than he could do so indirectly from Mrs. Margery? Indeed, he appeared to be dealing unkindly by him.
He wondered why his mother was so nervous. Constantly her voice broke when she laughed, and it seemed to him she laughed too much. In clearing away the tea a cup slipped from her hand and smashed on the floor. Bill swept up the pieces.

FAIR NEMESIS IS ARRESTED AFTER BROKER BALKS

Man Says She Pursued Him Three Years.

The story of the Nemesis pursuing him for three years was told to Assistant State's Attorney Michael Kaveney yesterday by Frank M. Kattenroth, a broker living at 665 Sheridan road. As a result, the Nemesis, Miss Doris Hutchinson, 26, lately living at the Rogers Park hotel, spent last night in the West Chicago avenue police station.

Mr. Kattenroth declared Miss Hutchinson had made frequent threats against him, telling him he would soon be dead if he did not give her money. A short time ago, he said, he had gone to the Rogers Park hotel in his automobile accompanied by his attorney, Don C. Ray, in an effort to settle the matter.

He Paid the Bill.
Miss Hutchinson, so the story ran, jumped on the running board of Kattenroth's car, put her hand in her pocket as if to draw a revolver, and declared there would be a couple of gunshots if he did not pay her hotel bill. The bill amounted to nearly $1,000. Kattenroth paid it, according to the story he told Mr. Kaveney.

More recently, said Mr. Kaveney, Miss Hutchinson had made threats charging Kattenroth with illegal conduct under the Mann act. But Kattenroth's burden of woes dates back still further, to the summer of 1919, when Miss Hutchinson sued him for $50,000 for breach of promise. She claimed that she had come from Canada to meet him. He had refused to do so, and she had been forced to return to her native land. He had then married another woman, and she had been forced to return to her native land.

Suit Was Dismissed.
Then in June, 1921, Miss Hutchinson suddenly announced herself married to Kattenroth, and started suit for divorce. She said she had married her husband somewhere in Wisconsin, but she was unable to remember the name of the town and whether they were married by a minister or a justice of the peace. The proceedings went merrily along until Miss Hutchinson admitted to Mrs. Josephine H. Lawrence of the social service bureau her story was false. The suit was dismissed.

BROKER LEAPS FROM WINDOW AND IS KILLED
James Waller Knott, 40, insurance broker and clubman, with offices at 175 West Jackson boulevard, committed suicide yesterday by leaping from a window on the twentieth floor of the Marshall Field annex, 25 East Washington street. The body struck a cross beam of the skylight on the sixth floor, and Knott was dead when rescuers reached his side.

For two hours Knott's body lay unidentified in the Western Casket company's room at 177 North Michigan avenue. Then a younger brother, summoned after a card had been sent to the dead man's pocket, made the identification.

From W. Woods, another insurance broker, it was learned Knott had gone to the loop to consult a physician, and he had been ill in health for a long time, said Woods.
Knott was the son of Henry Adams Knott, a well known real estate operator, who became established in Chicago in 1881. Besides his brothers, Alexander and Henry, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. David Dangier of Lake Forest.

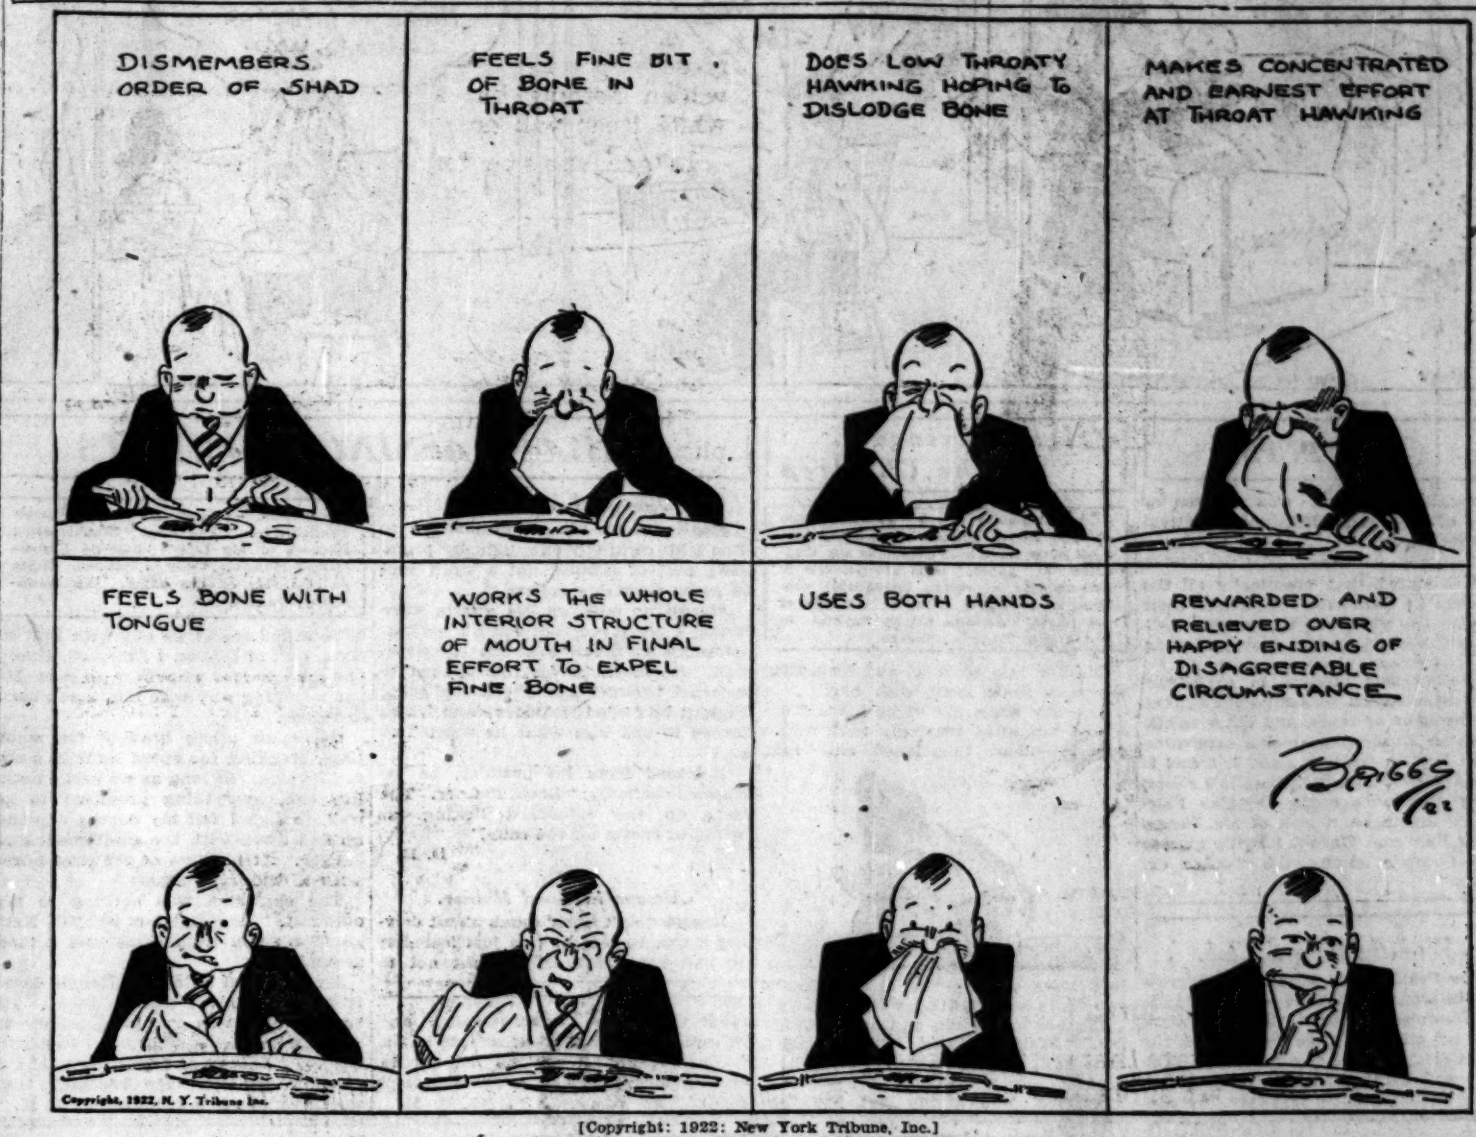

BLAME TONG WAR FOR POOLROOM ALLIGRETTI AND AMBERG WIN OUT IN JUDGES' RACE
Figures on the April 11 Democratic primary, made public yesterday by George P. Lohmeyer, chief clerk of the election commissioners, as the result of the official canvass, show that two regular candidates for municipal judgeships were nominated in the place of two others shown winners by police returns.

Francis B. Alligretti, with 53,132 votes, took third place instead of Frank H. Graham, who, the recount showed, received only 52,901 votes. F. Marshall Amberg, with 55,396 votes, needed for the four year term James J. O'Toole, who received only 54,868.

Judge James M. Donohoe was the only Citizens' organization candidate who broke through the regulars' lines. He got seventh place out of the ten to be nominated for associate judge of the municipal court.

No change in nominees for the county board resulted from the canvass.

COMPOSER SUED FOR DIVORCE ON DESERTION PLEA

Suit Filed by Daughter of W. H. Dyrenforth.

Mrs. Dorothy Dyrenforth Auracher, daughter of William H. Dyrenforth, prominent attorney residing in Evanston, yesterday filed suit for divorce from Harry R. Auracher, well known local composer and orchestra leader.

In the bill, filed by her father, Mrs. Auracher charges that Auracher deserted her early in 1920, when he relinquished his business interests in Chicago and went to New York to become associated with the Leo Feist company, music publishers. The couple were married in 1913.

Mrs. Auracher has taken an active part in North Shore society, and attained considerable local fame for her classic and ball room dancing. Auracher formerly maintained offices in the Republic building, from which he directed the movements of his orchestras, which were popular several years ago. His opera, "The Pearl Maiden," was enthusiastically received by audiences in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern cities, as well as in Chicago, where it had a successful run.

Mr. Dyrenforth, member of the legal firm of Dyrenforth, Lee, Christoff and Wiles, with offices in the Marquette building, refused to comment on his daughter's action, except to confirm the fact that desertion was the basis of the suit.

"Mr. Auracher is in New York, I understand, trying to compose or sell music," said Mr. Dyrenforth last night. "Mrs. Auracher is living with her parents for the time being, at least."

DU VALL'S BIGAMY TRIAL DELAYED IN AKRON COURT

Akron, O., April 27.—[Special.]—Trial of Lester Du Vall, former Akron, Ohio, and Pittsburgh real estate dealer, who was arrested and brought to Akron from Chicago by detectives yesterday on a charge of bigamy, was postponed until May 8 and Du Vall released on $2,500 bond late this afternoon.

Du Vall is charged, according to Chief of Detectives Welch, (International Photo) with bigamy for having married Mrs. Fern Du Vall, (International Photo) Mason of Akron prior to his having received a divorce from his former wife, with whom he lived in Pittsburgh. Du Vall explained today that he had only learned after his Akron marriage that his divorce, presumably granted in Pittsburgh Nov. 7, 1919, had not been legally signed when he was married to Mrs. Mason.

Descriptive William McDonnell of Akron, armed with registration papers, caused Du Vall's arrest in Chicago. Du Vall was one of the well known real estate brokers in Akron during the boom days of 1919 and 1920.

BEAUTY EXPERT IDENTIFIES BOY AS ASSAILANT

Miss Dorothy Marie Burdard, Des Plaines beauty expert, positively identified Frank McMahon, 18 years old, 3555 North Kimball avenue, yesterday as being the youth who ejected her from his automobile and attacked her on the night of April 18. The identification was made at the detective bureau in the presence of Coroner Hoffman and Chief of Detectives Hughes.

McMahon, after the girl had picked him out as her assailant, stoutly denied the charges. According to Chief Hughes, he was in trouble in several other states before coming to Chicago. This McMahon also denied.

McMahon was arrested following statements made by Edward Burns, 4872 Elston avenue, also held with Charles Leasing of Milwaukee, Wis., as suspects in the case.

According to Miss Burdard's story, she met McMahon at a station in Des Plaines the night of the attack and went for an automobile ride. There were ten others in the car, she said.

"He forced me from the car when I refused him money and then attacked me," she said. "I don't remember anything more after that."

BOOZE DEATH CAUSES RAIDS BY DRY AGENTS

Arrests Are Made and Liquor Seized.

Following announcement that William Hollister Jr., son of William C. Hollister, wealthy printer, found dead in a South State street lodging house last Tuesday night, had died from drinking moonshine whiskey, federal prohibition agents, acting on information furnished by Mr. Hollister himself, yesterday made a drive on loop drinking places and "bootleggers."

Four places, where it was said liquor could be obtained in large quantities, were visited by the agents in their rush to corral violators. The soft drink parlor owned by Henry Amelung at 805 South State street, where young Hollister was said to have obtained his drink of death, was the first place raided.

Seven gallons of moonshine liquors were seized at this place. The agents then proceeded to the drug store of Joseph Levee and Mr. J. Akren at 515 South State street. The two proprietors were arrested on charges of violating the prohibition law. A quantity of liquor was seized.

A gallon of wine and an amount of moonshine whiskey were seized at a saloon of Joe Fusco at 607 Polk street. When the raiders served a warrant on John Babel, proprietor of a soft drink parlor at 321 North Ashland avenue, he attempted to conceal a bottle of whiskey in his coat, but the agents discovered the liquor.

BLACK HAND BAND SUSPECT IS SLAIN AT DOOR OF HOME

The camera claimed another victim last night when Peter Tito Tomasella, 45 years old, 2126 Polk street, was shot down on the steps of his home by an unidentified assailant. He died almost immediately.

A belief that Tomasella was a member of a Black Hand band was advanced by Lieut. Charles Welling. He found fifteen feet of fuse and a number of percussion caps in the mattress of the slain man's bed.

Four men were arrested. They are: Joseph Calabrese, released last week on bond on a manslaughter charge; Joseph Tunt, 2745 Lexington street; Robert Tito, 1018 South Oakley boulevard; and Frank Tito, his brother, 2900 Flournoy street.

Pianist Forced to Stop "Long Distance" Test

"Jock" David Livingstone & Edinburgh, Scotland, who set out Tuesday afternoon to break the world's record for "long distance" piano playing, was forced to stop last night after completing forty-nine hours.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions which are accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send in your name and address with your questions to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." No questions will be returned. For today's question George A. Powers, 633 Cudahy avenue, Cudahy, Wis., was awarded $5.

The Question.
If you were to entertain a visitor in Chicago what points of interest would you show him?

Where Asked.
In drug store at Clark street and Grand avenue.

The Answer.
E. A. Kester, manager Fechter's pharmacy, Clark street and Grand avenue, answered: "I would show him our boulevard and park systems. From an industrial standpoint, the stockyards is probably the best example."

Miss Mae McKay, 3901 Sheridan road, bookkeeper, I wish were that visitor. Think of it—it one could only turn time back and again see Chicago for the first time—its millions of people of all nationalities, its tall buildings and its poor hovels and its palaces! Why pick out a few points among so many millions?

Fred E. Glueck, 2324 West Superior street, police officer— "The first place I would show them is the Union stock yards. Then perhaps Jackson park—the site of the world's fair. Then north on Michigan street, past the new Field museum, also a glimpse of real art in the Art Institute, then north to Lincoln park."

Miss Dorothy Roberts, 4402 Malden street, stenographer— "I wouldn't know where to go first. The Art Institute is a wonderful place, the Field museum should be interesting to everybody, and the Municipal pier is unique. There's only one famous loop in this world."

Eddie Fairwell, 2429 West avenue, printer—I'd take them to the stock yards (common to us but very wonderful to the visitor). I would by all means have them see the view from the Wrigley tower. We must overlook Lincoln park. And I would not forget to take them through Marshall Field's retail store.

The Question.
If you were to entertain a visitor in Chicago what points of interest would you show him?

Where Asked.
In drug store at Clark street and Grand avenue.

The Answer.
E. A. Kester, manager Fechter's pharmacy, Clark street and Grand avenue, answered: "I would show him our boulevard and park systems. From an industrial standpoint, the stockyards is probably the best example."

BANDITS SHOOT SALOONKEEPER DURING ROBBERY

Mother and Girl Seized in Gang of Seven.

Louis Rusecki, 45 years old, a saloonkeeper at 5059 Ellis avenue, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded late last night when he attempted to resist two armed robbers who rifled the cash register, robbed two customers and the bartender, and fled.

Shortly before midnight, while two men were being served at the bar, the robbers entered.
"Stick 'em up!" said one.
Rusecki was told to open the cash register and hand over the money it contained.

W. B. Bosberg, the bartender, was ordered out in front of the bar with Felix Gorman, 3356 Constance avenue, and George Avelina, 3817 Commercial avenue, the customers.
Rusecki made a move to reach for his revolver. Both robbers fired. The saloonkeeper fell. One robber grabbed $40 from the till and while the other stood on guard robbed Cecelia of $200, Gorman of $10, and Bosberg of $1.

"You must be related to Rockefeller," said the thief to Bosberg. The two bandits then departed.
Robber Gang Captured.
Hyde Park police yesterday caught a bandit gang which they believe has been responsible for the robbery of more than a score of Atlantic and Pacific Tea company stores and Standard Oil company stations since Jan. 1. Operations of the bandits have been confined to the south side.

A mother and her 14 year old daughter and five men comprise the gang, the police say. Those under arrest are Mrs. Anna Seidenfuss, and her daughter, Lena, 14, 4728 Calumet avenue; John Seidenfuss, a brother-in-law, and Charles Coleman, alias Smith, both of the same address; Charles Hamilton, 24, 6212 85th Lawrence street; Edward Miller, 24, garage owner at 64th street and South Park avenue, and Frank Warner, 22, 6203 Everhart avenue.

Prevents Robbery.
Detective Sergeant Eugene McCoy of the Hyde Park station was watching an Atlantic and Pacific store at 5123 Cottage Grove avenue yesterday morning when Coleman entered. He saw the detective and hesitated. He attempted to sell an automatic pistol to the proprietor.

McCoy arrested Coleman, who confessed, it is said, that the two had planned to rob the store. Lieut. Paul Duffy was notified and the robbery was prevented. Coleman was taken to the police station and held in the stockyard.

Four armed bandits in an automobile, who robbed a grocery store at 1418 Washburn avenue, and a butcher shop at 967 North Washburn avenue, Maurice Bild, 3216 Potomac avenue, owner of a clock store at 1301 Milwaukee avenue, and his wife were robbed last night in the hallway of their home of $14 and jewelry valued at $400.

Boys Are Held.
Four boys who confessed they robbed jewelry stores and had taken $200,000 worth of property, were held in the grand jury yesterday by Judge Lawrence R. Jacobs of the Boys' court. The boys were James McCarthy, 1282 North Clark street; John F. Johnson, 1750 Warren avenue; and Alfred Martins.

"HERO" BUTLER INDICTED FOR $6,000 ROBBERY

William Graham, the "hero butler" employed by Walter S. Brewster, president of the Board of Trade, and James Fuller, known to the police as "The Kid," were reported named in true bills voted by the grand jury yesterday, charging them with the robbery of the Brewster home at 232 East Walton place on April 17, when $6,000 worth of jewels were taken.

Graham, who has been in a municipal hospital recovering from a stab wound received during the robbery, was taken into custody by the police last Tuesday following the arrest of "The Kid" by Sgt. Harry Donnelly of the chief's office.

"The Kid," said the police, admitted having been approached by a "butler" from a gold coast home with a view to mapping out a campaign of robberies of wealthy north side families. He was taken to the bedside of Graham in the hospital, where, it is said, Graham whispered him a warning to "blow the town." Despite repeated questioning by the police Graham still maintains his innocence.

TWO MORE GIRLS SEEK CASH FOR BROKEN HEARTS

Unbashed by the action of recent juries in disposing of the claims of ill-fated women seeking money in lieu of love, Miss Barbara Moser of Berne, Ind., yesterday filed suit for $50,000 damages against A. J. Harner, an old salesman, with offices in the Railway Exchange building.

According to Attorney Hugh R. Porter, counsel for Miss Moser, the suit is the result of Harner's failure to redeem his alleged promise of marriage, said to have been made during a courtship at a Vincennes hotel.

Simultaneously, Miss Vincel Wadsworth, 3436 South Auburn avenue, appeared before a jury in Judge Joseph David's court to prosecute her suit for $5,000 against John J. Harner, an old salesman, who she charged jilted her on the ground that he had become "converted to Bolshevism, which does not tolerate marriage."

THE KERNEL—THE STORY OF THE HAUNTED HOUSE AND THE HIDDEN TREASURE

BONDS ERRATIC AS STOCKS KEEP DOWNWARD WAY

YESTERDAY'S AVERAGES

The New York Times.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—Downward reaction in the stock market became more general today, and, perhaps to an extent affected the course of bond market prices, whose movement was somewhat irregular. Wall Street again ascribed the reaction in prices to the natural ebb and flow of speculative feeling.

In bonds there were declines of a point or more in the purely speculative issues. In the stock market the day's trend of values was pretty much all one way and declines of a point or more on the stock exchange were general. Speculative industrial shares of the oil and motor group, which were bid up rather widely in the recent excited market, bore the brunt of the reaction. In the low priced railway group there were one or two exceptions, in which prices rose.

March Reports Mixed.
The March earnings statements continue to show great diversity in gross earnings. Atchafalpa and Northwestern, for instance, showing heavy decrease while half a dozen others, chiefly eastern roads, did much better than in 1921. Gross earnings on the Delaware and Hudson increased 15 per cent; on the Chesapeake and Ohio 25 per cent.
With all these companies it must be remembered that the known increase in freight traffic does not affect the passenger earnings, which do not show well. February's decrease in gross receipts was not occasioned by freight, total earnings from which were 3% per cent larger than in 1921, but by nearly 17 per cent decrease in earnings from passengers.

Foreign Banks' Report.
Today's weekly reports of the European state banks may be summarized by saying that the Bank of England's ratio of reserve to deposits rose to the highest percentage of any week since March 24, 1922, and the highest for the current week since 1917; that the French bank's currency issues were reduced 164,000,000 francs further, and that the German Reichsbank's note circulation was reduced 1,465,000,000 marks.
This German reduction presumably indicating large tax collections, since there was a similar reduction in the same week of 1921.
The French paper money seems definitely to have passed the high mark of its customary Easter expansion; last year it was reduced 2,000,000,000 francs between April and the middle of July.

Total indebtedness, including this issue.....1,455,000
Population, 1920 Census.....34,643

WOOD COUNTY is located in the central part of Wisconsin, in the heart of the agricultural and dairy district, about 75 per cent of the area of the County being under cultivation. Four railroads—the Chicago & Northwestern; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Soo Line, and Green Bay & Western—serve the industries of the county; farming, dairy, paper, lumber and other small manufactures. The principal cities of the county are Wisconsin Rapids, population 7,240, and Marshfield, population 7,394.

These bonds are a direct obligation of the entire County and are payable from an ad valorem tax levied on all the taxable property therein.

$4,500,000 Penn Public Service Corporation

First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds
Series C, Six Per Cent, Due 1947

Price 99 1/2 and Interest, Yielding About 6.05%

The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any normal Federal income tax to an amount not exceeding 2%, which it may lawfully pay at the source. The bonds will be free of the present Pennsylvania four mill tax.

For complete information regarding these bonds we refer to a letter from Mr. F. T. Hepburn, President of the Company, copies of which may be had on request and from which we summarize as follows:

The Penn Public Service Corporation supplies electric light and power to over fifty communities in western Pennsylvania, including the city of Johnstown, serving a population estimated to exceed 400,000. The Company also does some artificial gas and steam heating business, and through a subsidiary supplies natural gas to Johnstown and its suburbs.

The new 40,000 Kw. generating plant at Seward, Pa., built by the Conemaugh Power Co. and heretofore operated under contract, is now being acquired in fee ownership through the application of part of the proceeds of this issue. These First and Refunding Mortgage bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage upon this new Seward Plant, together with other important property. These bonds will also cover the balance of the property subject to underlying bonds of which a substantial part are deposited with the Trustee.

As officially reported, the gross earnings for the year ending March 31, 1922, were $4,025,830; the net earnings were $1,635,350, or about 1.8 times the interest charges ($911,850) on the Funded Debt in the hands of the public, including these bonds.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send upon request a circular describing the issue in detail.

SINCLAIR OIL CO.
CHIEF REPORTS A GAIN IN BUSINESS

BY O. A. MATHER.

Although the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company experienced a difficult period last year and incurred a considerable loss, President H. F. Sinclair intimates in the annual report that payments of cash dividends on the common stock are not in doubt.

"In all branches of the company's business distinct gains are being shown," he states. "Hereafter the policy of the management has been to conserve all earnings in the business in order to lessen the requirements for additional capital. The time appears to be rapidly approaching when a modification of that policy may be warranted. Last year's depression was utilized to prepare for this year's anticipated recovery. The tide turned several months ago."

Showing of Company.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, the company reports net earnings of $10,785,312 before taxes and depreciation and depletion charges, compared with $5,580,415 in 1932. After all charges there was a deficit for 1932 of $5,896,778, compared with a surplus of $18,658,850 in 1931. After payment of dividends the 1932 deficit was $7,695,846, compared with a surplus of $17,795,106 in 1931. The financial statements, with comparisons, follow:

Detailed Statement of Paper Money.

Something of how the United States has outstripped other nations in correcting war time inflation and why it now stands as the leading exponent of sound money is revealed in the weekly statement of the federal reserve system. There has been a steady decline in paper currency represented by federal reserve notes until now the total at $12,167,000 is the lowest since August, 1918. Simultaneously, the reserve position has risen to practically the highest recorded percentage.

The consolidated statement of the twelve federal reserve banks shows that loans dropped $25,688,000, bills bought, $4,809,000, and total bills, $49,000. Government securities increased $34,997,000. Total earning assets declined $25,688,000. Total deposits recorded $15,620,000, with the member banks' reserve credits and other general deposits declining $12,167,000 and $14,804,000 respectively. While government deposits declined $1,841,000, Federal reserve note circulation declined $23,532,000. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 78.3, compared with 77.4 per cent in the preceding week.

Statement of New York Bank.

The New York federal reserve bank shows gold reserves declined $1,202,000; total reserves, $1,964,000; loans, $14,170,000; bills bought, $2,959,000, and total bills, $18,869,000. Total earning assets increased $3,609,000. Total deposits recorded $3,987,000, with the member banks' reserve credits declining $1,867,000. Federal reserve note circulation fell $2,316,000. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 85.6, from 85.6 per cent in the preceding week.

The Chicago federal reserve bank shows gold and total reserves increased $3,857,000 and $3,881,000, respectively. Loans declined $1,813,000 and total bills, $7,884,000. Total earning assets recorded $7,884,000. Total deposits declined $1,754,000, although the member banks' reserve credits increased $1,521,000. Federal reserve note circulation declined $1,837,000. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 75.6 from 74.1 per cent in the preceding week.

He wants more than money from his bank

He wants his bank to show an unselfish attitude on every reasonable request.

He wants to be able to transact all his banking business under one roof — commercial banking, foreign exchange, bonds, vaults, savings, trust matters.

He wants a bank of strength, character and influence.

We appreciate the opportunity of serving the business borrower.

Honor General Grant on 100th Birthday—Girl, Blind and Deaf, Is Marvel—Cubs Win, 6 to 4

IN MEMORY OF DUTY WELL PERFORMED. Sergt. John T. Garin laying a wreath on the Lincoln park statue of Gen.

Grant at the services yesterday commemorating the general's birthday.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

HONORING THE MAN WHO LED THEM TO VICTORY. Members of the Grant post of the G. A. R. drum corps, who presented an oil painting of the general to the Grant school. John Rankin, with bugle at side, is playing a file used by him while serving with Gen. Grant.

GIRL VICTIM OF AUTO PARTY IDENTIFIES ASSAILANT. Frank McMahon, left, who is said by Dorothy Burchard

to have been one of the men who kidnapped and attacked her. Chief of Detective Hughes is shown at the right.

BROKER'S NEMESIS. Doris Hutchinson, arrested on complaint of Frank Kattenstroth, who says she has threatened his life unless he gave her money.

HOW THE GRIM REAPER RIDES THE WAVES. Two monster icebergs in the northern Atlantic fields, near the path of passenger liners, being dodged by the coast guard cutter U. S. S. Seneca.

[Wide World Photo.]

KIMONO GIRL. Mrs. Peggy Fish, arrested after she appeared on the street clad in a kimono.

MEDILL HIGH SCHOOL STARTS CLEANUP. Under the auspices of the Civics Literary club, students are making their neighborhood bright and cleanly by a spring attack on dirt and debris with shovels, rakes, brooms and wheelbarrows.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

BLIND AND DEAF, BUT HEARS AND SEES. Willetta Huggins, 17, of Janesville, Wis., with her nurse, Leora Farmer, can tell whether a rose is red or yellow by smelling it.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

SEEKS DIVORCE. Dorothy Dyrenforth Auer, daughter of an Evanston attorney, is suing her composer husband.

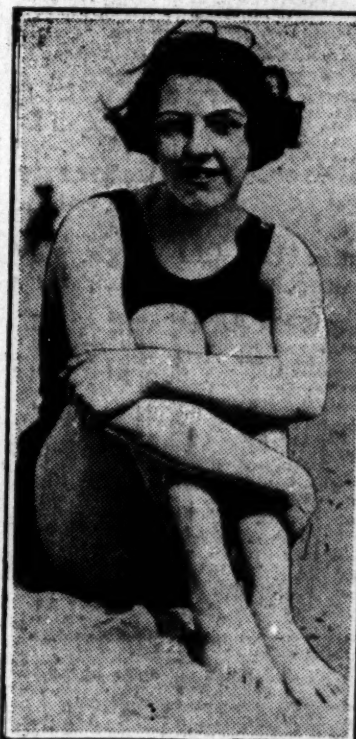

WILL NOT REWED. Mrs. Enrico Caruso said before sailing for Italy.

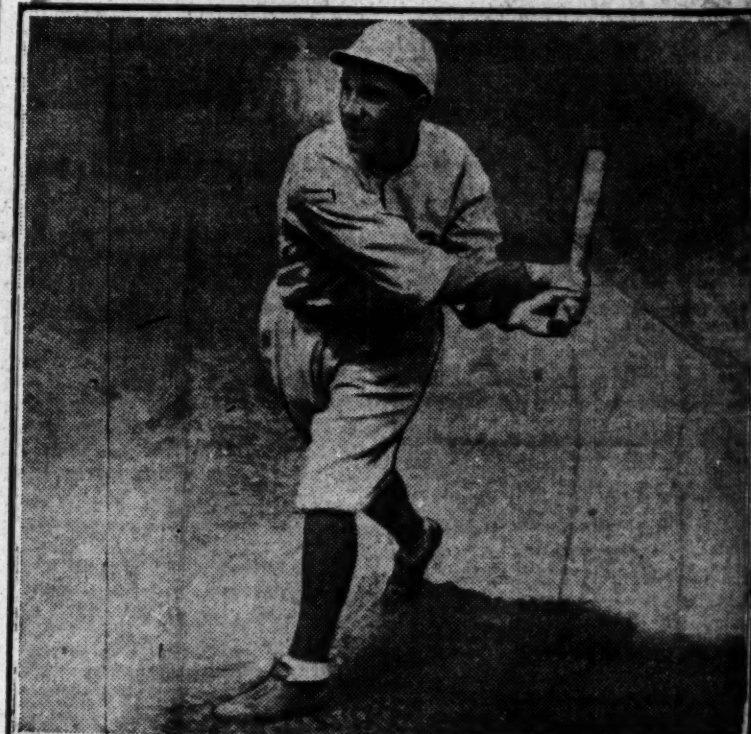

FINED. Margaret Green, who pleaded guilty to a charge of shoplifting before Judge Fetzer yesterday.

"READING" THE TRIBUNE. Willetta Huggins, who is blind, reads by feeling the impressions made by print.

MISS ETHEL MCGARY. member of New York Women's Swimming association, who broke woman's world record for 300 yards.

SPANKS THE APPLE. Ray Grimes, big first baseman of the Cubs, yesterday won his second game in succession by timely hitting. His home run in the sixth landed away across Sheffield avenue, after clearing the right field fence.

LABOR ON THE MAT. Johnny Meyers, middleweight wrestling champion, is shown putting a vicious toe hold on Heinie Engel in their eight round draw match at the Ashland Auditorium last night. The pained expression on Meyers' face is not real—he is not the one who is suffering. He's just using all his strength to make the other fellow quit, but the other fellow refused.
